Goldsmith As Journalist:

Goldsmith as Journalist Richard C. Taylor, 1993 Indeed the journalistic achievements of Oliver Goldsmith invite a reconsideration of the man doomed for so many years to play Doctor Minor to Johnson's Doctor Major Long before he established a reputation as the author of The Vicar of Wakefield She Stoops to Conquer and The Deserted Village Goldsmith was establishing his unique journalistic voice a voice incredibly diverse if also frequently self contradictory There is no doubt that Goldsmith was something of a controversial figure working for both of London's monthly book review journals while they were engaged in an ongoing venomous and well publicized dispute But it is important to remember that he was respected too He did serve after all as principal contributor to several of London's most successful newspapers and magazine miscellanies In this capacity his career intersected with the careers of Arthur Murphy John Newbery David Hume Thomas Gray Edmund Burke and the most prominent booksellers authors and editors of the period As interest in eighteenth century English journalism continues to accelerate the critical reputation of Oliver Goldsmith which has been dwindling for years may receive an important boost Scholars now have a wealth of primary and critical material from which to construct a contextual framework for understanding literary social and political developments in eighteenth century England Perhaps this wealth of information will lead them to reassess the man who not only exemplified but also consistently commented on the state of the press in High Georgian England BOOK JACKET Goldsmith as Journalist Richard Cameron Taylor, 1988 The Rise of Literary Journalism in the Eighteenth Century Iona Italia, 2005-02-22 Recent years have witnessed a heightened interest in eighteenth century literary journalism and popular culture This book provides an account of the early periodical as a literary genre and traces the development of journalism from the 1690s to the 1760s covering a range of publications by both well known and obscure writers The book's central theme is the struggle of eighteenth century journalists to attain literary respectability and the strategies by which editors sought to improve the literary and social status of their publications

Tobias Smollett in the Enlightenment Richard J. Jones, 2011-04 Tobias Smollett 1721-1771 is best known today as a novelist but in the eighteenth century he was regarded as a historian and critic In this book Richard J Jones explores the diversity of Smollett's journalistic and literary writings and establishes new connections between Smollett's work and writers of the Scottish Enlightenment The book takes as its focal point Smollett's visit to Nice between 1763 and 1765 and the account he wrote of it in Travels through France and Italy 1766 This account is usually seen as a travel narrative but Jones argues that it should be read as a pocket encyclopedia in the tradition of Voltaire Jones divides his study into sections on medicine fine art the theater and history In doing so he offers a productive juxtaposition of authors texts and contexts presenting Smollett as a writer whose Scottish and particularly Glaswegian identity informed his involvement in a wider European Enlightenment Community Newspapers and the Japanese-American Incarceration Camps Ronald Bishop, 2015-06-03 Though much has been said about Japanese American incarceration camps little attention is paid to the community newspapers closest to the camps and how they constructed the identities and lives of the occupants inside. Dependent on government and military officials for information, these journalists rarely wrote about the violation of the evacuees' civil rights. Instead, they concentrated on the economic impact the camps and the evacuees who would replace workers off to enlist in the military and work for defense contractors would have on the areas they covered. Newspapers like the Cody Enterprise and Powell Tribune in Wyoming, the Lamar Daily News and the Casa Grande Dispatch regularly published overly optimistic updates on the progress of construction, the size of the contractor payrolls, and the amount of materials used to build the camps. Ronald Bishop and his coauthors reveal how journalists positioned the incarceration camps as a potential economic boon and how evacuees were framed as another community group there to contribute to the region's economic well-being. Community Newspapers and the Japanese American Incarceration Camps examines the rhetoric and journalistic approach of the local papers and how they informed the communities just outside their walls. This book will appeal to scholars of history and journalism.

The Manship School Ronald Garay, 2009-01-15 In September 2005, just days after Hurricane Katrina devastated New Orleans, journalists from the Times Picayune and WWL-TV asked for and received assistance from LSU's Manship School of Mass Communication. The staff of the Times Picayune used the School's computer labs to publish an online edition of the paper within hours of their arrival, and a print edition just five days after the storm. WWL-TV reporters set up shop in the School's television facility and were on the air a few hours later telling Katrina's story. What happened at the Manship School during that September week affirmed the ascendancy of this illustrious program. From a single journalism course offered during the 1912-1913 session, the LSU Manship School of Mass Communication has a long, rich tradition of excellence. In The Manship School, Ronald Garay, a longtime faculty member and former associate dean, traces not only the story of the Manship School but its role in the evolution of media education in general. Hugh Mercer Blain, a professor in the English department at LSU in the early 1900s, created the first LSU journalism courses and curriculum with the support of then LSU president Thomas Boyd, making LSU one of the first universities to offer journalism education. Garay describes Blain's efforts to structure a fledgling journalism department and his success in gaining national recognition for what soon would become the LSU School of Journalism and later the Manship School of Mass Communication Garay chronicles the subsequent building of full fledged journalism units in liberal arts colleges the addition of new fields such as broadcasting advertising public relations and political communication the creation of doctoral programs and the emergence of serious research on the impact of media on society Throughout Garay introduces the students faculty directors and alumni who played important roles in the school s history including pioneer political consultant Raymond Strother former Associated Press head Wes Gallagher and Reader s Digest chairman and former CEO Thomas Ryder and details the evolution of LSU s student media particularly The Reveille KLSU FM and Tiger TV The book also describes the Manship School s emergence as an independent college at LSU and Dean John Maxwell Hamilton s role in re orienting the School s intellectual and professional mission raising the School s stature and visibility nationally and incorporating state of the art technology in classrooms and labs The Manship School provides a valuable and comprehensive record of one of LSU s most distinguished units
