Parliament,1894 Goodbye, Elaine , The Beginner's Goodbye Anne Tyler,2012-04-03 Anne Tyler gives us a wise haunting and deeply moving new novel in which she explores how a middle aged man ripped apart by the death of his wife is gradually restored by her frequent appearances in their house on the roadway in the market Crippled in his right arm and leg Aaron has spent his childhood fending off a sister who wants to manage him When he meets Dorothy a plain outspoken independent young woman she is like a breath of fresh air Unhesitatingly he marries her and they have a relatively happy unremarkable life together But when a tree crashes into their house and Dorothy is killed Aaron feels as though he has been erased forever Only Dorothy's unexpected appearances from the dead help him to live in the moment and find some peace Gradually he discovers as he works in the family's vanity publishing business turning out titles that presume to guide beginners through the trails of life that maybe for this beginner there is a way of saying goodbye A beautiful subtle exploration of loss and recovery pierced throughout with Anne Tyler's humour wisdom and always penetrating look at human foibles

Racing in Place Michael Martone, 2011-08-15 Is it truth or fiction Memoir or essay Narrative or associative To a writer like Michael Martone questions like these are high praise Martone's studied disregard of form and his unruffled embrace of the prospect that nothing no story no life is ever quite finished have yielded some of today's most splendidly unconventional writing Add to that an utter weakness for pop Americana and what Louise Erdrich has called a deep affection for the ordinary and you have one of the few writers who could pull off something like Racing in Place Up the steps of the Washington Monument down the home stretch at the Indy Speedway and across the parking lot of the Moon Winx Lodge in Tuscaloosa Alabama Martone chases and is chased by memories and memories of memories He writes about his grandfather's job as a meter reader those seventies era hotels with atrium lobbies and open glass elevators and the legendary temper of basketball coach Bob Knight Martone as Peter Turchi has said looks under stones the rest of us leave unturned So what is he really up to when he dwells on the make of Malcolm X's eyeglasses or the runner up names for Snow White's seven dwarfs In My Mother Invents a Tradition Martone tells how his mom as the dean of girls at a brand new high school in Fort Wayne Indiana constructed a nostalgic past out of nothing Sitting at their dining room table she came up with everything from the school colors orange and brown to the yearbook title Bear Tracks Look and then look again Martone is saying You never know I never know

Sing Us A Song Ma, Before We Say Goodbye Johnny Slater, 2018-05-20 Sing Us A Song Ma Before We Say Goodbye is a lively vividly rendered and extremely moving memoir of Johnny Slater's childhood in war torn Liverpool Written by his daughter Carol it follows Johnny from the outbreak of the Second World War in 1939 right up until his period of National Service from 1954-1956 It tracks the progress of Johnny his brother Jimmy sister Cath Ma Da Aunty Julia and his four legged friends Punch and Judy through the devastation of the Liverpool Blitz their evacuation to a country farm and the first sight of cows for the children Johnny's school years D Day first love and the devastating tragedy that befalls the family during Johnny's time in the army It is full of detail and colour painting an exuberant and loving picture of working class life in Kirkdale on the banks of the Mersey where life was often hard and money in short supply but where communities pulled together family was everything and it only took a chippy dinner or a bonfire to send a small boy into paroxysms of joy The dialect driven dialogue creates a rich sense of place and the characters are full of life and love so that the untimely death of one of them at the end of the narrative is profoundly moving and tragic

Goodbye to All That? Dan Stone,2014-01-23 In the decade after 1945 as the Cold War freeze set in a new Europe slowly began to emerge from the ruins of the Second World War based on a broad rejection of the fascist past that had so scarred the continent s recent history In the East this new consensus was enforced by Soviet imposed Communist regimes In the West the process was less coercive amounting more to a consensus of silence On both sides much was deliberately forgotten or obscured The years which followed were in many ways golden years for western Europe Democracy became embedded in Germany and eventually triumphed over dictatorship in Spain Portugal and Greece Britain and France faced up to the necessity of decolonization The European Economic Community was founded and went from strength to strength as the economies of western Europe bounced back from the devastation of the war The countries of the East lagged far behind and seemed caught in a perpetual game of catch up but even there conditions had improved since the end of the war albeit at a much slower rate Above all throughout this period the European world continued to be sustained by the broad anti fascist consensus that had emerged in the years after 1945 However as Dan Stone shows in this new history of the continent since the war this fundamental consensus began to break down in the wake of the oil shocks of the 1970s a process which has rapidly accelerated since the end of the Cold War Globalization deregulation and the erosion of social democratic welfare capitalism in the West and the collapse of the purported Communist alternative in the East have all fatally undermined the post war anti fascist value system that predominated across Europe in the first four decades after the end of the Second World War Ominously this has been accompanied by a rise in right wing populism and a widespread revision of the anti fascist narrative on which this value system was based The danger of this shift is now evident financial and social crisis an increasing inability on the part of European populations to resist historical myth making and the re emergence of fascist ideas The result as Dan Stone warns is socially divisive politically dangerous and a genuine threat to the future of a civilized Europe

The Goodbye Body Joan Hess,2006-04-04 Claire Malloy runs a bookstore in the normally quiet college town of Farberville Arkansas an enterprise which provides the verging on meager living for her and her deeply sarcastic teenage daughter Caron. So when emergency work forces Claire and Caron to abandon their apartment for a few weeks, they are in no financial position to put themselves up in style and Claire is thrilled to accept a customer's offer to let them stay at her well-stocked, well-equipped palatial home while she is traveling. Of course, nothing is ever that easy. No sooner do Claire and Caron ensconce themselves than disquieting events start to occur: dubious people show up looking for the traveling owner of the house; the owner herself turns out not to be who she claimed and is now seemingly on the run; and a dead body keeps turning up and subsequently disappearing around the grounds of the house. Determined for once to stay out of the mysterious doings, Claire's hand is finally forced when the disappearing body turns out to be only the first corpse to turn up.
