Edgewater People:

Edgewater People Mary Eleanor Wilkins Freeman, 2006-02-01 Villages as well as people exist subject to laws of change increase final dissolution They have character complex of course still individual It is interesting to watch the inevitable result when a village of large area and restricted population increases in population as years go on The one village becomes impossible It is like a bulb of several years growth If life and bloom are to continue separation into component parts is indicated The original village becomes several and yet the first characteristics are never entirely lost In the village of Barr exactly this process ensued with the increase of population Instead of one sparsely populated village covering a large land area there were four Barr Center the Barr Center South Barr Barr by the Sea and Leicester Each had its own government each village was an entity and yet the original entity of Barr remained indestructible The Edgewater family stamped the four villages with their individuality so did the Leicesters so did the Sylvesters so did all strongly rooted families The stories in this volume relate to families living in patriarchal fashion although not under one roof under one village tree Includes Sarah Edgewater The Old Man of the Field The Voice of the Clock Value Received The Flowering Bush The Outside of the House The Liar Sour Sweetings Both Cheeks The Soldier Man The Ring with the Green Stone and A Retreat to the Goal

Building a People of Power Robert C. Linthicum, 2015-09-15 Jesus never intended the church to become an institution he intended it to be a people of power transforming the world Power is the capacity ability and the willingness to act Most people and systems use power to dominate and control but others have used it relationally to liberate transform and even save Built around a biblical exploration of shalom Building a People of Power explains how local churches can use power to transform their communities and their cities Detailed power strategies are presented enabling churches to build productive relationships to address the primary issues of people they serve and to develop strong leaders faithful organizations and redeemed neighborhoods that live out shalom The People's Cyclopedia of Universal Knowledge ,1900
