BOOK JACKET Fostering Sustainable Development Nwanze Okidegbe, 1997-01-01 Peace and reconstruction efforts in 1996 dramatically altered the landscape of Bosnia and Herzegovina and brought many tangible benefits to its people. These efforts have already led to improvements in the areas of health, education, unemployment, and infrastructure repair. Sustaining and broadening the positive developments of the past year will be the key task for the country and the international community in 1997-98. This country study examines the near-term reform issues that are essential to generating employment and providing a firm institutional and policy foundation for reconstruction and sustained economic growth. The main areas of emphasis will be on policy and budget reforms involving institutions for macroeconomic management and bank and enterprise privatization and reforms affecting labor markets and the social safety net.

Intensified Systems of Farming in the Tropics and Subtropics J. A. N. Wallis, 1997-01-01 Environmentally Sustainable Development Studies and Monographs Series No 19 Five years have passed since the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, better known as the Rio Earth Summit. Almost all the countries of the world attended the conference and committed themselves to the policies and programs laid out in Agenda 21, the action plan of the summit. The World Bank and other international agencies have sought to be active partners in implementing the agenda. This report is part of the Bank's current efforts to review the progress made over the past five years and to make plans for improved effectiveness for the future. The paper is divided into two parts. Part I looks at the broad picture, assessing some of the large challenges for the future and outlining thematic principles. Part II provides concise reviews of the majority of the chapters of Agenda 21 and relates them to the standpoint of Bank activities.

Residential Piped Water in Uganda Clarence Tsimpo, Quentin Wodon, 2018-12-31 This World Bank Study provides a basic diagnostic of residential piped water coverage and affordability in Uganda and its relationship with poverty using a series of nationally representative household surveys for the period 2002-13. The study first analyzes trends in piped water coverage using both administrative and survey data. Demand-side and supply-side factors reducing the take-up of piped water service by households in areas where the service is available are estimated. The study also documents the extent to which piped water coverage enables households to shift time use away from domestic tasks toward market work and the beneficial effect that this may have on poverty. The targeting performance to the poor of water subsidies is estimated, and results obtained for Uganda are compared with estimates for other countries. Finally, the study analyzes issues related to affordability, including the impact of the tariff increase of 2012 on household consumption, poverty, and piped water affordability, as well as the cost for households to connect to the piped water network.
