Cogan, 2012-09-01 This book originates from a collaborative research initiative to examine how various societies in the Asia Pacific Region construct moral and civic education and to what extent these systems achieve the democratic objective of creating socially responsible citizens In many western societies there is at least a rhetorical tendency to separate the moral and civic dimensions of citizenship education and in some cases to exclude the moral dimension from the discourse of preparing citizens However as cross societal dialogues and research about citizenship education have increased in the past two decades scholars have identified differences in the emphasis put on the moral dimension of citizenship education across the Asia Pacific region In many predominantly Confucian Islamic and Buddhist societies for example the emphasis on the moral dimension of citizenship education is explicit and in some cases central While awareness of a divide or perhaps more appropriately a continuum in the role of moral versus civic education in democratic societies has been recognized for some time to our knowledge this book marks the first effort of this scope to address the issue of the moral civic divide in citizenship education Thus through a cross cultural dialogue across societies in the Asia Pacific Region this book addresses the issue of whether elements of both civic and moral education can be effectively joined to create a socially responsible citizen
