Hartley Field (Large Print 16pt) Connie Wanek, 2010-10 The poems in Hartley Field are by turns witty and amusing lyrical and moving But always they are clear and direct Wanek writes clever closely observed poems on subjects as diverse as Butter and the Hammer work which is in the tradition of Francis Ponge and Pablo Neruda These are often humorous and are enormous fun to read Similarly a number of poems focus upon children s games and activities Checkers and Jump Rope among others and explore them physically and psychologically What is most remarkable about this collection is the consistent originality of the imagery and elegance of language In the poem Late September we find a plumed of smoke hand feeding the wind The object poem lemon observes that the fruit has bumpers on both ends like a Volks wagon A racoon advancing into a dark yard is described as a creature both manly and womanly capable of force or seduction Here is the first stanza of the elegiac After Us Rain is falling through the roof And all that prospered under the sun the books that opened in the morning and closed at night and all day turned their pages to the light Joyce Sutphen says of Wanek Nothing about what she says or sees is routine Hartley Field is a book of revelations in poem after poem some ordinary object or event is split open with such keen tenderness that the heart is caught off guard Connie Wanek was born in 1952 and lives in Duluth Minnesota She is the author of Bonfire published in 1997 by New Rivers Press Her poems have appeared in The Atlantic Monthly Poetry The Virginia Quarterly Country Journal and many other publications She has been awarded fellowship support from the Arrowhead Regional Arts Council and The Jerome Foundation
