Lies That Bind Susan D. Blum, 2007-01-10 This provocative book explores the ideology of truth and deception in China offering a nuanced perspective on social interaction in different cultural settings Drawing on decades of fieldwork in China Susan D Blum offers an authoritative examination of rules expectations and beliefs regarding lying and honesty in society Blum points to a propensity for deception in Chinese public interactions in situations where people in the United States would expect truthfulness yet argues that lying is evaluated within Chinese society by moral standards different from those of Americans Chinese for example might emphasize the consequences of speech Americans the absolute truthfulness Blum considers the longstanding values that led to this style of interaction as well as more recent factors such as the government's control over expression But Chinese society is not alone in the practice of such customs The author observes that many Americans also excel in manipulation of language yet find a simultaneous moral absolutism opposed to lying in any form She also considers other traditions including Japanese and Jewish that struggle to control the boundaries of lying balancing human needs with moral values in contrasting ways Deception and lying the book concludes are distinctively cultural yet universal inseparable from what it is to be a human being equipped with language in all its subtlety

Flowers from the Heart, Songs of the Soul Ajit Sripad Rao Nalkur, 2015-10-23 The beauty of nature surrounds us but its beauty is often wasted as we rush through lives filled with work family and other responsibilities What if we were to slow down for a moment and take a look around What would we notice what would we learn Surely more than we could have imagined Poet Ajit Sripad Rao Nalkur admires the wilderness around him while living in southern India His words bridge the gap between the human world and the world of nature where small details speak volumes and inspire peace He writes not only of nature's majesty but also of our connection to its connection we can choose to ignore or embrace In this collection an artist seeks and waits for his muse Little things bring great joy like a single wildflower or the serene power of silence Nalkur's words reach beyond the page and into the reader's innermost being challenging each of us to emotionally connect with nature These poems remind us all to slow down and admire the miracle that is life on Earth The Fortunes of Garin Mary Johnston,2020-09-28 Without blazed autumn sunshine strong as summer sunshine in northern lands Within the cathedral dusk ruled rich and mysterious The sanctuary light burned a star The candles were yet smoking the incense yet clung thick and pungent Vanishing through the sacristy door went the last flutter of acolyte or chorister The throng that worshipped dwindled to a few lingering shapes The rest disappeared by the huge portal marvellously sculptured It had been a great throng for Bishop Ugo had preached Now the cathedral was almost empty and more rich more mysterious because of that The saints in their niches could be seen the better and the gold dust from the windows came in unbroken shafts to the pavement There they splintered and light lay in fragments One of these patches made a strange glory for the head of Boniface of Beaucaire who was doing penance stretched out on the pavement like a cross Lost in the shadows of nave aisles and chapels were other penitents on their knees muttering prayers Hugues from up the river lay on his face half in light half in shadow before the shrine of Saint Martial Hugues s penance had been heavy for he was a captain of Free Lances and had beset and robbed a travelling monk But in Hugues s cavern that night the monk turned preacher and wrought so mightily that he brought Hugues who was a simple emotional soul to his knees and the next day when they parted sent him here for penance He lay bare to the waist and his back was bloody from the scourging he had received before the church doors The church was a marvel It had been building for long long while and it was not yet finished It was begun by a grateful population at the instigation of the then bishop in the year 1035 All Christendom had set the year 1000 for the Second Coming and the Judgement Day and as the time approached had waited in deep gloom and with a palsied will for those august arrivals When the year passed with miseries enough but with no rolling back of the firmament like a scroll it was concluded that what had been meant was the thousandth from the Crucifixion 1033 was now set for the Final Event and the neglect of each day the torpor and terror of the mind continued But 1033 passed marked by nothing more dreadful than famine and common wretchedness Christendom woke from that particular trance sighed with relief and began to grow to grow with vigour and rapidity with luxuriance and flourishes Peninsular Muse Mohammad A. Quayum,2007 This book brings together for the first time interviews with sixteen major writers in the English language from Malaysia and Singapore Three generations of writers representing various literary genres and ethnic groups come together to make this book fully illustrative of the literature of the two countries In their respective interviews the writers discuss significant issues pertaining to their own lives careers and works They also explain what they think of the present state of their own societies literatures and cultures and where they stand vis vis the questions of religion science technology censorship gender ethnicity multiculturalism nationalism and globalisation Moreover the writers comment on the challenges they encounter writing in an alien language as well as in an environment of growing materialism and technocracy and finally they discuss the future of their own writing and writing in English in Malaysia and Singapore more generally
