Going Up The River Travels In A Prison Nation:

Going Up the River Joseph T. Hallinan, 2003-07-08 The American prison system has grown tenfold in thirty years while crime rates have been relatively flat 2 million people are behind bars on any given day more prisoners than in any other country in the world half a million more than in Communist China and the largest prison expansion the world has ever known In Going Up The River Joseph Hallinan gets to the heart of America's biggest growth industry a self-perpetuating prison industrial complex that has become entrenched without public awareness much less voter consent He answers in an extraordinary way the essential question What in human terms is the price we pay He has looked for answers to that question in every corner of the prison nation a world far off the media grid the America of struggling towns and cities left behind by the information age and desperate for jobs and money Hallinan shows why the more prisons we build the more prisoners we create placating everyone at the expense of the voiceless prisoners who together make up one of the largest migrations in our nation's history

The Torture and Prisoner Abuse Debate Laura L. Finley,2008-07-30 Revelations about U S torture and prisoner abuse in blatant violation of the long established and universally recognized Geneva Conventions have horrified most Americans Nevertheless it has been argued that the high stakes of the War on Terror have made the protections offered by the Conventions obsolete or that the abuses are the work of a few rogue soldiers and officers This book reaches past the headlines into the historical record to document POW torture and also domestic prisoner abuse dating well back in our history as well as government and military knowledge of and collusion in such ostensibly illegal and reprehensible acts Is torture and prisoner abuse justified in the name of some greater good As a society we shall have to decide The historical record presented here can contribute much to an informed national discussion

Purgatory Citizenship Calvin John Smiley,2023-05-30 Reentry after release from incarceration is often presented as a story of redemption Unfortunately this is not the reality Those being released must navigate the reentry process with diminished legal rights and amplified social stigmas in a journey that is often confusing complex and precarious Making use of life history interviews focus groups and ethnographic fieldwork with low income urban residents of color primarily Black men Calvin John Smiley finds that reentry requires the recently released to negotiate a web of disjointed and often contradictory systems that serve as an extension of the carceral system No longer behind bars but not fully free the recently released navigate a state of limbo that deprives them of opportunity and support while leaving them locked in a cycle of perpetual punishment Warning of the dangers of reformist efforts that only serve to further entrench carceral systems Purgatory Citizenship advocates for abolitionist solutions rooted in the visions of the people most affected

Community Economic Development Rhonda Phillips, Terry Besser, 2016-05-06 The role of economic development in communities is multi-faceted, having an array of antecedents, impacts and implications. This volume explores the relationships between economic development and community development, focusing on the aspects that impact communities such as social capital, participation and business development. It discusses the need for aligning the goals of community betterment more closely with economic improvement and finding ways to enhance leadership and other resources. Including both current contributions and classics, the evolution of the relationship between and roles of the two kinds of development is explored. The articles in the volume present several theoretical perspectives of development. Most common among them are sustainable economic development and social capital theories. Utilizing these theories and data from various sources, the authors are able to suggest specific development strategies for improving community economic and quality of life outcomes. The volume offers an exploration of directions for future research, including the need for more theoretical and empirical work on the role of amenity development on rural community economic and quality of life outcomes. Practitioners of community and economic development along with researchers and students will find this volume useful and relevant for both theory and application. This book is a compilation of articles published in the Journal of the Community Development Society.

Jail Sentences Andrew Sobanet, 2008-01-01 A long list of canonical writers in Western literature have experienced incarceration and have subsequently written celebrated works about the imprisoned and the condemned. The French tradition is no exception: writers who produced noteworthy texts while incarcerated or who later wrote about their experiences in prison are found on the literary historical landscape from the medieval era through the twentieth century. Prison writing by inmates, former guards, chaplains, teachers, and doctors is firmly established as part of the fabric of popular culture and has long attracted the attention of culture critics and scholars. Nevertheless, scant analysis exists of the prison novel, a literary genre that, as Andrew Sobanet argues in Jail Sentences, uses fiction as a documentary tool. Its narrative peculiarities, which are the main subjects of Sobanet's study, include the use of autobiographical and testimonial techniques to critique the penitentiary system. Jail Sentences is the definitive study of the legacy of the Western tradition of prison writing in twentieth-century French literature. Although Sobanet focuses primarily on French writers, Victor Segalen, Jean Genet, Albertine Sarrazin, and François Bon, his keen sense of literary dialogue pulls into the orbit of his study an international corpus of work from Dostoyevsky to Malcolm X. Jail Sentences arrives at a coherent definition of the genre whose unique conventions stem from the innermost regions of our understanding of stories, truth, fiction, and belief.
