Golden Horns:

The Golden Horns John L. Greenway, 1977 As an introduction to modern myth The Golden Horns masterfully encompasses a wide circle of historical and literary materials John Greenway first establishes the theoretical base of his discussion by examining the nature of time in Norse mythic consciousness After suggesting several ways in which the mythic apprehension of reality conditioned medieval Icelandic narrative he then elaborates on the dialectical relationship between myth and reason Maintaining that myth is neither true nor false but always either expressive or not the author then traces the origin rise and fall of two great modern myths of northern birth seventeenth century Swedish Gothicism and the Ossianic craze of the eighteenth century both of which illustrate the singular tension in the modern mind between mythic imperatives and the impulse to de mythologize Finally The Golden Horns traces the romantic belief in a new mythology which synthesizes myth and reason from its early acceptance through its eventual repudiation In his conclusions about the state of myth in the modern world Greenway postulates that we have inherited the romantic respect for myth as truth but lack the romantic faith in transcendence necessary to establish myth's reality Consequently we express our mythic consciousness of who we are in quasi scientific language consciously manipulating mythic symbols for social control

out Rather low in the east was the Morning star shining like silver with a bluish tinge of steel I looked towards the west the great infinity was filled with the hosts of heaven ranged behind this Morning star I saw at once the origin of the myth which grew to have such tremendous moral meaning because the Morning star was not in this case the usher of the day but the chieftain of night the Prince of Darkness the mortal enemy of the Lord of Light I returned to bed knowing that the battle in heaven would soon begin I rose when the sun was high next morning All the world was bright shining and active glad some and fresh from the rays of the sun the kingdom of light was established but the Prince of Darkness and all his confederates had vanished cast down from the sky and to the endless eternity of God their places will know them no more in that night again They are lost beyond hope or redemption beyond penance or prayer I have in mind at this moment two Indian stories of the Morning star one Modoc the other Delaware The Modoc story is very long and contains much valuable matter but the group of incidents that I wish to refer to here are the daily adventures and exploits of a personage who seems to be no other than the sky with the sun in it This personage is destroyed every evening He always gets into trouble and is burned up but in his back is a golden disk which neither fire nor anything in the world can destroy From this disk his body is reconstituted every morning and all that is needed for the resurrection is the summons of the Morning star who calls out It is time to rise old man you have slept long enough Then the old man springs new again from his ashes through virtue of the immortal disk and the compelling word of the star Now the Morning star is the attendant spirit or medicine of the personage with the disk and cannot escape the performance of his office he has to work at it forever So the old man cannot fail to rise every morning As the golden disk is no other than the sun the Morning star of the Modocs is the same character as the Lucifer of the Latins
