Even When You're 60 and Over!* Peter Owens,2011-04-11 Age no longer matters even in the wide world of sports Golf is notable for being the sport of choice for senior men and women It s leisurely yes but it s also competitive enough to give them the opportunity to build their physical strength and stamina and to showcase their skills and techniques The game of golf is becoming more challenging over the years Golf courses are getting longer and it s now a game of power and endurance not just precision Senior golfers have to confront a new set of challenges to get the edge over younger players But no worries the sport is on the side of the older generation too A lot of manufacturers are turning out golf equipment made exclusively to meet the needs of senior golfers Golf training aids have emerged to help older players play more comfortably in the course There is growing enthusiasm on golf fitness to help senior players deal with injuries and to keep them physically fit Enhancements in golf techniques are helping senior golfers improve their golf swing and develop their overall power so that they can play better than ever Your age should be no barrier to
