Draugsvold,2000 When in 1901 Alfred Nobel bequeathed to the world the funds to support the Nobel Prize one of his few directives for the category of literature was that the artists selected be of idealistic tendency Since its inception the prize has given a very public voice to some of the world s greatest writers and their responses to the honor their acceptance speeches have themselves often been epochal within each author s body of literature From the famed call to arms by William Faulkner to the multicultural song of Derek Walcott from 1903 s Bj rnstjerne Bj rnson to 1999 s G nter Grass this collection traces the ideals of the artists and the selection committee itself throughout the entirety of the 20th century Interestingly writes Draugsvold none of the writers discuss the more technical aspects of their craft Equally striking is the strength of the common thread of idealism found in these addresses a firm belief in humankind and the power of art in its role in the service of truth and the service of liberty as Albert Camus said in 1957 I decline to accept the end of man wrote the Old Man William Faulkner The speeches presented here were chosen not by subjective but rather by substantive criteria with biographical presentations and brief statements of gratitude omitted Included are an introduction to each of the 28 writers chosen an excerpted copy of the speech or lecture and a bibliography of works in English The work concludes with a complete list of prize winners in literature and a bibliography of sources cited in the writer s introductions Twentieth Century American Literature Warren French,1980-11-01 Korean Culture ,1985 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Hamilton,2009 Retold Stories, Untold Histories Joanna Ziarkowska,2014-07-18 Retold Stories Untold Histories concentrates on how challenging questions concerning the nature of historical representation the formation of national ethnic identities and creative agendas are addressed in the diverse and inspiring writings of Maxine Hong Kingston and Leslie Marmon Silko The rationale behind juxtaposing two writers coming from diverse cultural contexts originates in the fact that both Kingston and Silko share the experience of historical and cultural marginalization and more importantly devise similar methods of rendering it in creative writing

Writing from the perspective of two distinct marginalized groups Kingston and Silko share the view that the official version of national history may be seen as a narrative of misrepresentation and the exclusion of people who either greatly contributed to the building of the country or occupied the territory of the present United States long before its creation In their texts both writers engage in a polemic against a history that using its legitimizing power as a scientific discipline produces and perpetuates stereotypical images of Chinese and Native Americans and more importantly eliminates the two groups from the process of constructing the national narratives of origins that monitor and control the borders of what constitutes American identity Despite apparent differences in cultural and historical contexts Kingston and Silko share an enthusiasm for employing unconventional tools and sources for offering creative reconstructions of a past which had been silenced or repressed Library of Congress Catalogs Library of Congress,1970 Asian American Literature Keith
