Chapman,2015-06-13 Literacy is arguably the most important goal of schooling as to a large extent it determines young children s educational and life chances and is fundamental in achieving social justice New Zealand s literacy education programme has long been regarded as one of the world s most successful approaches to teaching literacy skills to young children Excellence and Equity in Literacy Education questions this widely held assumption In the late 1990s the New Zealand government developed a national literacy strategy aimed at reducing persistently large inequities in literacy achievement outcomes The chapters in this edited volume present evidence indicating that the national literacy strategy has failed examine the major factors responsible for the continuation of New Zealand s comparatively wide spread of scores in literacy achievement and describe the most effective strategies for reducing the literacy achievement gap and achieving excellence and equity in New Zealand literacy education The Routledge International Handbook of Early Literacy Education Natalia Kucirkova,Catherine E. Snow,Vibeke Grøver,Catherine McBride,2017-03-31 The Routledge International Handbook of Early Literacy Education offers a pioneering overview of early literacy provision in different parts of the world and brings together interdisciplinary research evidence on effective literacy teaching to inform current and future practice and policy of early literacy From the problem of identification of literacy difficulties in a particular learning context to supporting the provision of early literacy through digital media the handbook deals with the major concerns and newest areas of interest in literacy research With an international and future vision it provides an accessible guide to the main debates and future trends in the global field of early literacy and informs academics policy makers practitioners educators and students about innovative early literacy research methods and instruction The three sections and 30 ground breaking chapters reflect a conceptual framework of questions asked by scholars and educators interested in looking beyond traditional definitions of literacy Part I provides contemporary insights collected by internationally renowned scholars on what literacy is and what it can offer to young children in the twenty first century Part II is a collection of detailed portraits of 14 countries regions or language communities and focuses on early literacy provision practice and policy from across the world Part III outlines key interventions and research endorsed practices designed to support home school connections and children s reading and writing skills as well as vocabulary phonological awareness and narrative abilities with examples drawn from various home school and community environments All chapters promote discussion critical analysis and questions for reflection and are written in jargon free language in an easy to use themed format This handbook is an indispensable reference guide for practising teachers and student teachers especially those undertaking postgraduate qualifications as well as early literacy researchers policy makers and school based literacy leaders Policification of Early Childhood Education and Care Susanne Garvis,Sivanes Phillipson,2019-10-29 The third volume in the Early Childhood Education in the 21st Century International Teaching Family and Policy Perspectives miniseries focuses on research highlights and policy aspects of early childhood education and care from 22 different countries around the world This volume provides a platform for authors to discuss and debate the implications of research findings on current practices that reflect policies of each country The research presented spans from challenges in teacher training to case studies of family practices around early child development to problematise the key components of teacher education and family practices that impact young children s education and care By problematising the key issues chapter authors discuss the shifting paradigm of early childhood education and the importance of future research in informing these changes Offering key policy and practice insights across 19 different countries this book is a must read for early childhood educators researchers early childhood organisations policy makers and those interested to know more about early childhood within an international perspective

Preparing Globally Minded Literacy Teachers Jan Lacina,Robin Griffith,2019-11-15 This textbook brings together internationally renowned scholars to provide an overview of print and digital literacy instruction for pre service teachers and teacher educators It examines historical and cultural contexts of literacy practices around the globe and addresses issues that teachers need to consider as they teach children from diverse world cultures languages and backgrounds Organized into three Parts Early Literacy Intermediate to Adolescent Literacy and Case Studies the text highlights key practices around the world to provide literacy educators and students with a broader view of effective practices as well as strategies for overcoming challenges faced by literacy educators worldwide The global case studies present complex issues and allow readers to discuss what it means to be globally minded as well as how to implement best practices in literacy instruction All chapters include consistent elements for ease of use such as vignettes historical and cultural contexts implications for future research and discussion questions Grounded in current research and theory this book is designed for foundational courses in literacy education and literacy methods as well as courses in comparative and multicultural education     Teaching Content and Language in the Multilingual Classroom Svenja Hammer,Kara Mitchell Viesca,Nancy L. Commins,2019-07-03 This book brings together research from six different countries across three continents where teacher educators and policy makers are addressing the under preparation of content teachers to work effectively with multilingual learners By highlighting this relatively young field of research at an international level the book advances the research based knowledge of the field and promotes international research relationships and partnerships to better support the education of multilingual learners and their teachers The chapters represent high quality empirical qualitative quantitative and mixed methods studies about pre service and in service teachers Comprising four sections each represents a critical aspect of the equitable teaching of multilingual learners All the research was conducted in countries that belong to OECD Organisation for Economic Co operation and Development and the PISA Programme for International Student Assessment enabling the reader to compare contexts and outcomes This book will be of particular interest to academics researchers and post graduate students in the fields of language education teacher education and education for multilingual learners It will be of great value to anyone concerned with equity and social justice for multilingual learners whose languages cultural practices and resources are often overlooked and or marginalized in the schools they attend     Professional Learning from Classroom-Based Inquiries Jyoti Rookshana Jhagroo,Patricia Martha Stringer,2023-09-29 This book provides authentic practice based inquiries by pre service teachers Their reflective narratives showcase their individual inquiries as they navigated their self chosen professional learning journeys through the teaching as inquiry framework The narratives advance what it means to be a reflective practitioner in practice and highlight necessary dispositional skill sets to attain valuable professional learning through inquiry Through an inquiry stance pre service teachers are liberated from being knowledge consumers to local knowledge producers relevant to their practice The dissonance this shift creates negates the comfortable doing of teaching to make the act of teaching authentic relevant and powerful     Reading Across International Boundaries Roger Openshaw,Janet Soler,2007-06-01 Reading Across International Boundaries edited by Roger Openshaw and Janet Soler clearly demonstrates these broader characteristics of debates about the teaching of reading It sets the educational issues firmly in the context of the social cultural and political dynamics that inform and animate them and give them their meaning It does so by setting out to understand their historical and comparative dimensions Establishing the historical context highlights the origins and also the longevity of the problems and conflicts that are now widely familiar The comparative approach also gives purchase on the wide range of approaches taken to these issues in nations around the world More than this however this collection takes us into the realm of international influences It underlines how debates in this area are not simply national but are international and global in their scale Moreover this is the case not only in relation to the broad fabric of policy debate but also in the everyday struggles of pupils parents and teachers in schools classrooms and homes Such an agenda is unsettling and provocative It has the potential to challenge received opinion to hustle preconceptions It may also propose alternative visions for the improvement of teaching in this area that might be taken up and taken seriously in different localities or even more broadly Most of all it enables us to enrich and broaden our understanding of the learning and the teaching of reading at a time when awareness and vision are sorely needed This collection of articles by leading scholars based in several different countries will be a significant contribution to the research field but also a major resource when put to good use by policy makers and practitioners as it should surely be

Developing Habits of Noticing in Literacy and Language Classrooms Alyson Simpson, Francesca Pomerantz, Douglas Kaufman, Sue Ellis, 2019-08-15 Noticing is an essential aspect of professional expertise in teaching a skill that draws on deep professional knowledge in ways that affect how teachers are aware of respond to and meet the needs of their students Being a noticing teacher in the language and literacy classroom can make a real difference to students progress as readers and writers to their literacy attainment and to their engagement with learning This international research informed book is unique in its focus on literacy and language The authors explore models and methods to embed both noticing and the development of teacher agency and grounded knowledge into teacher education programs and school practices To further the professional knowledge and agency of noticing teachers the authors argue that research policy and the professional community need to understand how noticing skills can be woven into the policy and practice contexts of the literacy teacher s work Developing Habits of Noticing in Literacy and Language Classrooms Research and Practice across Professional Cultures is designed to help teachers researchers and school leaders think in new ways about how noticing operates in the context of the literacy classroom and how it can be supported Each chapter provides a valuable insight into how teachers learn from their students in the course of teaching activities to be responsive analytical and inspirational

Frontiers in the Acquisition of Literacy Claire M. Fletcher-Flinn, 2015-09-28 Learning to read and to spell are two of the most important cultural skills that must be acquired by children and for that matter anyone learning a second language We are not born with an innate ability to read A reading system of mental representations that enables us to read must be formed in the brain Learning to read in alphabetic orthographies is the acquisition of such a system which links mental representations of visual symbols letters in print words with pre existing phonological sound and semantic comprehension cognitive systems for language Although spelling draws on the same representational knowledge base and is usually correlated with reading the acquisition processes involved are not quite the same Spelling requires the sequential production of letters in words and at beginning levels there may not be a full degree of integration of phonology with its representation by the orthography Reading on the other hand requires only the recognition of a word for pronunciation Hence spelling is more difficult than reading and learning to spell may necessitate more complete representations or more conscious access to them The learning processes that children use to acquire such cognitive systems in the brain and whether these same processes are universal across different languages and orthographies are central theoretical questions Most children learn to read and spell their language at the same time thus the co ordination of these two facets of literacy acquisition needs explication as well as the effect of different teaching approaches on acquisition Lack of progress in either reading and or spelling is also a major issue of concern for parents and teachers necessitating a cross disciplinary approach to the problem encompassing major efforts from researchers in neuroscience cognitive science experimental psychology and education The purpose of this Research Topic is to summarize and review what has been accomplished so far and to further explore these general issues Contributions from different perspectives are welcomed and could include theoretical computational and empirical works that focus on the acquisition of literacy including cross orthographic research

Ethnography and Language Policy Teresa L. McCarty, 2014-04-04 Seeking to expand policy discourses in ways that lead to social justice for all this volume uses a critical sociocultural and ethnographic approach to address a variety of pressing language planning and policy issues contextualized in case studies

International Perspectives on English Teacher Development Andrew Goodwyn, Jacqueline Manuel, Rachel Roberts, Lisa Scherff, Wayne Sawyer, Cal Durrant, Don Zancanella, 2022-11-30 The fourth volume in the successful IFTE series provides an international perspective on the knowledge and professional development of the English teaching workforce It provides a state of the art review of English teaching and teachers and how they are developed over time With contributions from leading scholars around the world this volume is divided into four sections that follow the journey of an English teacher from being a student to the latter stages of professional development and becoming a teacher It sheds light on how different elements such as school culture professional development higher level qualifications professional associations and government policies contribute or detract from retention and job satisfaction International Perspectives on English Teacher Development serves as ideal reading for the research and teacher education community along with teachers and student teachers globally
