experiences their development their pathways through the child welfare service system their service needs their service receipt and ultimately their well being over time The chapters in this rich synthesis of NSCAW data represent thoughtful and increasingly sophisticated approaches to the problems highlighted in the study and in child welfare research in general The authors capitalize on the longitudinal multidimensional data to capture the experiences of children and families from the time they are investigated by CPS through multiple follow up points and to consider the interdependent nature of the traditional child welfare outcomes of safety permanence and well being The topics covered not only are critical to child welfare practice and policy but also are of compelling interest to other child service sectors such as health mental health education and juvenile justice The authors of chapters in this volume are esteemed researchers within psychology social work economics and public health Together they represent the future of child welfare research showcasing the potential of NSCAW as a valuable resource to the research community and providing glimpses of how the data can be used to inform practice and policy

Rasmussen, 2020-01-08 There are few things in our society that provoke such raw emotions as that of child abuse Most people justifiably so are outraged when they hear of allegations of abuse and their anger is intensified as they learn of what seems to be an inappropriate criminal justice response However the debate on child abuse usually happens through visceral emotions rather than facts Taking emotions out of a child abuse debate is much easier said than done but it is of utmost importance to identify the facts When the reader has a better understanding of the scope of child abuse they can become more objective but still maintain their passion about ways to protect this vulnerable and targeted population Child Abuse Child Exploitation and Criminal Justice Responses is unique in that it offers the reader contributing facts based not only through scholarly research but practical experience working in field from this wonderful collaboration of criminal investigator and forensic nurse Thus providing much personal insight and demonstrating how these two areas of expertise can join forces to achieve the objective of working as a team to facilitate safeguarding children The authors also presents the research on this complex yet worthy topic by identifying the unique challenges of investigating these offenses while ultimately bringing the perpetrators to justice and presenting the research from various perspectives of child abuse including both national and international issues and responses
