Decoding the Osirian Myth Panagiota Sarischouli, 2024-09-23 The earliest written references to the Osirian myth complex appeared already in the Pyramid Text spells c 2400 2300 BCE The most complete exposition of this ancient Egyptian myth is however found in the Greek treatise On Isis and Osiris in which the 2nd century CE Platonist Plutarch utilises Egyptian mythology to advocate his philosophical ideas concerning the divine and the nature of the cosmos This book aims at decoding Plutarch's narrative of the Osirian myth linking his claims to the existing Egyptian and Greek parallels It thus analyses a multitude of mythic and religious traditions from a transcultural perspective exploring the relation of the Pharaonic features of the Osirian divinities to the features they had acquired in Ptolemaic and Roman times interpreting the Egyptian myth within the overall framework of parallel mythologies from other cultures and examining whether the brief mythic stories historiolae recited in Late Egyptian ritual texts can be deployed to enrich the context of certain obscure episodes in Plutarch's account of the myth The book will be of great interest not only to scholars and students of Plutarch and later Middle Platonism but also to Egyptologists Due to its thematic variety and scope this publication will also appeal to a wider array of readers specialists and non specialists alike interested in religious syncretism interreligious connections and the challenge of multiculturalism from Hellenistic times until Late Antiquity

The Earliest Christian Meeting Places Edward Adams, 2013-10-24 Edward Adams challenges a strong consensus in New Testament and Early Christian studies that the early Christians met almost exclusively in houses This assumption has been foundational for research on the social formation of the early churches the origins and early development of church architecture and early Christian worship Recent years have witnessed increased scholarly interest in the early house church Adams re-examines the New Testament and other literary data as well as archaeological and comparative evidence showing that explicit evidence for assembling in houses is not nearly as extensive as is usually thought He also shows that there is literary and archaeological evidence for meeting in non house settings Adams makes the case that during the first two centuries the alleged period of the house church it is plausible to imagine the early Christians gathering in a range of venues rather than almost entirely in private houses His thesis has wide ranging implications
