Lorenzo, 2021-03-08 This book explores presidential justifications of every major American military conflict from the War of 1812 to the Second Gulf War It generates two important findings First presidents employ a specific standard the Necessity Standard publicly to justify decisions to go to war and privately to make decisions regarding war and peace The Necessity

Standard holds that major military force should be used if no viable alternatives are available to protect vital interests or discharge duties Second when addressing the Necessity Standard presidents have disclosed military and security policies that vary considerably in their patience with alternatives and their definitions of vital interests and duties The book concludes by characterizing wars categorizing presidential policies and outlining how the central position of the Necessity Standard in the American politics of war and peace might affect policymaking processes conflict management and the public s perceptions of wars and foreign policy explained and sustained from one administration to another Bringing a neglected dimension into the study of US foreign policy this book will be of great interest to students and researchers of US foreign policy ideology and politics Science, Technology, and American Foreign Policy Eugene B.
