Effective Group Work in Primary School Classrooms Peter Kutnick, Peter Blatchford, 2013-06-22 This book offers a challenge to traditional approaches to classroom teaching and pedagogy. The SPRinG Social Pedagogic Research into Groupwork project part of a larger research programme on teaching and learning funded by the Economic and Social Research Council ESRC was developed to enhance the learning potential of pupils working in classroom groups by actively involving teachers in a programme designed to raise levels of group work during typical classroom learning activities. Internationally the SPRinG project is the largest evaluation of effective group working methods in comparison to traditional teaching with findings that show raised levels of pupil achievement and a doubling of sustained active engagement in learning. The opening chapters present arguments regarding the relationship of social interaction and children's cognitive development and examine theories that explain why social interactional processes should be integrated into primary school pedagogic practices. Next the book describes the conceptual and methodological basis for the SPRinG studies especially its focus on the relational approach the type of involvement of teachers and classroom planning. Further chapters present key results and describe the background and methods used to establish SPRinG based effects on pupil progress in mathematics literacy and science including both macro and micro assessments how the SPRinG approach affected pupil pupil interactions and teacher pupil interactions as measured by systematic on the spot observations and analyses of videotapes of groups working on specially designed tasks work and effects on pupil self completed measures of motivation and attitudes to group work. The book also analyses reflections of teachers who have worked with SPRinG moving from theory to practice as well as adding insights associated with implementing SPRinG principles in schools. Drawing upon developmental psychological socialpsychological and classroom research it develops a new and ambitious social pedagogic approach to classroom learning with a stress on group work which will be of interest to researchers teachers and policy makers. This book includes contributions from Andrew Tolmie and Ed Baines who were also involved in the ScotSPRinG and SPRinG projects.
