Teaching Reading Barbara M. Taylor,P. David Pearson,2005-04-11 This unique book tells the story of a select group of schools and teachers who have managed to beat the odds in terms of improving elementary students reading achievement Originating with the CIERA School Change Project directed by Barbara Taylor and David Pearson it was subsequently expanded to include the work of other research teams doing similar work It combines large scale studies of effective schools and teachers Part I with case studies of individual schools and teachers who have successfully transformed research findings into situation specific strategies appropriate to their schools and classrooms Parts II and III The book s distinct contribution is showing that no matter how consistent the research findings on effective school and classroom practice groups of teachers must improvise their own situation specific programs and practices In short they must be able to create variations on a common theme Key features of this outstanding new volume include Integration of research and cases One cannot fully understand research based general principles without knowing how they play themselves out in specific settings Similarly one cannot fully understand cases without seeing the commonalities across different schools and classrooms sharing similar goals This book provides both perspectives Diverse cases The schools and classrooms depicted in this book are urban rural and suburban poor and middle class and English only and bilingual Rather than telling readers how to beat the odds it provides them with a wide variety of cases from which they can extrapolate to build their own customized teaching programs and practices Summarizing section The final section contains a summary of research on effective schools and teachers and a concluding chapter by Gerry Duffy and Jim Hoffman in which they reflect on the book s content and possible directions for future research The book is targeted to both in service elementary teachers and literacy students in advanced college courses

Mathematics Education at Highly Effective Schools That Serve the Poor Richard S. Kitchen,Julie DePree,Sylvia Celed n-Pattichis,Jonathan Brinkerhoff,2017-09-25 This book presents research findings about school level and district level practices and successful strategies employed in mathematics education by highly effective schools that serve high poverty communities It includes both the theory and practice of creating highly effective schools in these communities In 2002 nine schools were selected in a national competition to participate in the Hewlett Packard High Achieving Grant Initiative As part of this Initiative these schools participated in the research study this book reports The study employed both qualitative and quantitative methodologies to examine school and classroom level factors that contributed to high achievement particularly in mathematics The goals of the study were twofold 1 to investigate the salient characteristics of the highly effective schools in which the research was conducted and 2 to explore participating teachers conceptions and practices about mathematics curriculum instruction and assessment The schools described have much to teach about creating powerful learning environments that empower all students to learn challenging mathematics Given the pressures of the accountability measures of the No Child Left Behind legislation this book is extremely timely for those seeking school models that serve high poverty communities and have demonstrated high performance on high stakes examinations and other assessments Mathematics Education at Highly Effective Schools That Serve the Poor Strategies for Change is particularly relevant for teacher educators researchers teachers and graduate students in the fields of mathematics education and school policy and reform and for school administrators and district coordinators of mathematics education Target 2000 Thomas J. Sergiovanni, John E. Moore, 1990 Transforming America's Schools John Murphy, Jeffrey Schiller, 1995 The main theme of this text is that school improvement is difficult but with appropriate knowledge and firm leadership school administrators can make the difference It should be of interest to principals students in education administration and concerned members of the public A School Changes Jerrold E.
