From The Heart Of Covington A Novel:

From the Heart of Covington Joan Medlicott, 2010-04-01 The three spunky ladies who so charmed readers in The Ladies of Covington Send Their Love and The Gardens of Covington welcome us back to the small Southern town of Covington to their quaint white farmhouse with yellow shutters on Cove Road. Life lessons abound throughout From the Heart of Covington as housemates Hannah Grace and Amelia continue to surround themselves with love and hope meeting each new challenge with equanimity and heart and placing their trust in one another as their friendship strengthens and grows. In helping a dear friend and neighbor cope with illness the ladies develop a deeper mutual compassion and a true appreciation for the softness of heart and toughness of spirit that join them as women. Amelia feeling strong and adventurous takes a momentous trip to New York City to further her burgeoning photography career. Grace kindhearted as ever becomes involved with a little girl at the local elementary school who may be having terrible problems at home. Meanwhile Hannah's daughter Laura is involved in a tragic accident that has serious consequences for all concerned. With the same compassion and heart readers have already come to know and love, Joan Medlicott once again reveals how life's journeys and challenges only strengthen our loving commitments to family, friends and loved ones. It's another inspiring message of courage, self-acceptance and hope.

From the Heart of Covington Joan Avna Medlicott, 1997 The Gardens of Covington Joan A. Medlicott, 2001-05-18 The Gardens of Covington joyously celebrates women and friendships, families and love, laughing through the tears, thinking with the head and the heart. The ladies so real and inspiring will make you wish they were your neighbors. If this is your first visit to the small town of Covington you'll feel comfortably at home in the white farmhouse with the yellow shutters on Cove Road that once again teems with warmth and fresh hope for today and tomorrow. If it's your second visit you'll be thrilled to sit on the front porch once again and catch up with old friends and neighbors. Hannah cool-headed and calm battles to save their beloved hills from the rapacious development that has already ruined Loring Valley only five minutes from Cove Road. Amelia giddy with a newfound love abandons the ladies and her photography to please her dashing new beau. And Grace is driven to prove she has an eye for business when she and her steady companion Bob Richardson open the Cottage Tearoom. New friends and neighbors are introduced. Eccentric Lurina Masterson, an eighty-one year old bride, brings tears of joy to all when wearing her childhood dream of white satin she married Old Man who is ninety-one. And George Maxwell, the ladies' closest neighbor, provides an inspired solution to preserving Covington's lush hills and valleys. Joan Medlicott writes lovingly about the complexity and tenderness of women; she writes with honesty about relationships, about love and passion, about commitment and friendship as well as about the intricate bonds between parents and their children. As you join the ladies of Covington through their highs and their lows, their joys and their sorrows, you will not want the book to end nor will you wish to leave their world behind you.

The Postsouthern Sense of Place in Contemporary Fiction Martyn Bone, 2014-01-13 For generations southern novelists and critics have grappled with a concept that is widely seen as a trademark of their literature a strong attachment to geography or a sense of place In the 1930s the Agrarians accorded special meaning to rural life particularly the farm in their definitions of southern identity For them the South seemed an organic and rooted region in contrast to the North where real estate development and urban sprawl evoked a faceless raw capitalism By the end of the twentieth century however economic and social forces had converged to create a modernized South How have writers responded to this phenomenon Is there still a sense of place in the South or perhaps a distinctly postsouthern sense of place Martyn Bone innovatively draws upon postmodern thinking to consider the various perspectives that southern writers have brought to the concept of place and to look at its fate in a national and global context He begins with a revisionist assessment of the Agrarians who failed in their attempts to turn their proprietary ideal of the small farm into actual policy but whose broader rural aesthetic lived on in the work of neo Agrarian writers including William Faulkner and Eudora Welty By the 1950s adherence to this aesthetic was causing southern writers and critics to lose sight of the social reality of a changing South Bone turns to more recent works that do respond to the impact of capitalist spatial development on the South and on the nation generally including that self declared international city Atlanta Close readings of novels by Robert Penn Warren Walker Percy Richard Ford Anne Rivers Siddons Tom Wolfe and Toni Cade Bambara illuminate evolving ideas about capital land labor and class while introducing southern literary studies into wider debates around social cultural and literary geography Bone concludes his remarkably rich book by considering works of Harry Crews and Barbara Kingsolver that suggest the southern sense of place may be not only post Agrarian or postsouthern but also transnational Wingless Chickens, Bayou Catholics, and Pilgrim Wayfarers L. Lamar Nisly,2011 Flannery O Connor Tim Gautreaux and Walker Percy are all Catholic writers from the South and seem to embody very fully both parts of that label Yet as quickly becomes clear in their writing their fiction employs markedly different tones and modes of addressing their audience O Connor seems intent on shocking her reader whom she anticipates will be hostile to her deepest beliefs Gautreaux gently and humorously engages his reader inviting his expected sympathetic audience to embrace the characters needed moral growth Percy satirically lampoons an array of social ills and failings in the Church as he tries to get his audience laughing with him while he makes his deadly serious point about the flaws he finds in the church and larger culture Why do these three writers assume such divergent images of their audience Why do texts by three writers who each embrace their Southern locale and their Catholic beliefs seem to have so little in common To answer these questions Nisly helps readers understand these authors fiction by examining the role that place and time had in shaping each author s idea of an audience and by extension his or her manner of addressing that audience More specifically Nisly focuses on each author s experience of Catholic community and each author s placement in relation to the Second Vatican Council Linking together biographical information and a reading of their fiction Nisly argues that O Connor s Gautreaux s and Percy s sense of audience has been shaped in significant ways by each author s own local experience of Catholicism in his or her home region as well as the larger global changes of Vatican II that transformed Roman Catholicism The Story of the 180th Infantry Regiment George A.
