The Angler's Companion to the Rivers and Lochs of Scotland Thomas Tod Stoddart,1847 Making Space for the River Jeroen Frank Warner,Arwin van Buuren,Jurian Edelenbos,2012-11-01 This book examines recent developments in river flood management from the viewpoint of Making Space for the River and the resulting challenges for water governance Different examples from Europe and the United States of America are discussed that aim to green rivers including increasing river discharge for flood management enhancing natural and landscape values promoting local or regional economic development and urban regeneration Making Space for the River presents not only opportunities and synergies but also risks as it crosses established institutional boundaries and touches on multiple stakeholder interests which can easily clash Making Space for the River helps the reader to understand the policy and governance dynamics that lead to these tensions and pays attention to a variety of attempts to organize effective and legitimate governance approaches The book helps to realize connections between policy domains problem frames and goals of different actors at different levels that contribute to decisive and legitimate action Making Space for the River has an international comparative character that sheds light upon both the country specific governance dilemmas which relate to specific state traditions and institutional characteristics of national water management but also uncovers interesting similarities which provide us with building blocks to formulate more generic lessons about the governance of Making Space for the River in different institutional and social contexts The authors of this book come from a variety of disciplines including public administration town and country planning geography and anthropology and these different disciplines bring multiple ways of knowing and understanding of Making Space for the River programs The book combines interdisciplinary scientific analyses of Space for the River projects and programs with practical knowing and lessons drawing Making Space for the River is written for both practitioners and scholars and students of environmental policy spatial planning land use and water management Editors Jeroen Warner Assistant Professor of Disaster Studies Wageningen University The Netherlands Arwin van Buuren Associate Professor of Public Administration Erasmus University Rotterdam The Netherlands Jurian Edelenbos Professor of Public Administration Erasmus University Rotterdam The Netherlands

A World of Rivers Ellen Wohl, 2010-11-15 Far from being the serene natural streams of yore modern rivers have been diverted dammed dumped in and dried up all in efforts to harness their power for human needs But these rivers have also undergone environmental change The old adage says you can't step in the same river twice and Ellen Wohl would agree natural and synthetic change are so rapid on the world's great waterways that rivers are transforming and disappearing right before our eyes A World of Rivers explores the confluence of human and environmental change on ten of the great rivers of the world Ranging from the Murray Darling in Australia and the Yellow River in China to Central Europe's Danube and the United States Mississippi the book journeys down the most important rivers in all corners of the globe Wohl shows us how pollution such as in the Ganges and in the Ob of Siberia has affected biodiversity in the water But rivers are also resilient and Wohl stresses the importance of conservation and restoration to help reverse the effects of human carelessness and hubris What all these diverse rivers share is a critical role in shaping surrounding landscapes and biological communities and Wohl's book ultimately makes a strong case for the need to steward positive change in the world's great rivers

The Unquiet River Arupjyoti Saikia, 2019-08-25 The unruly Brahmaputra has always been an agent in shaping both the landscape of its valley and the livelihoods of its inhabitants But how much do we know of this river's rich past Historian Arupjyoti Saikia's biography of the Brahmaputra reimagines the layered history of Assam with the unquiet river at the centre The book combines a range of disciplinary scholarship to unravel the geological forces as well as human endeavour which have shaped the river into what it is today Wonderfully illuminated with archival detail and interwoven with narratives and striking connections the book allows the reader to imagine the Brahmaputra's course in history This evocative and compelling book will be interesting reading for anyone trying to understand the past and the present of a river confronted by the twenty first century's ambitious infrastructural designs to further re-engineer the river and its landscape

The River Pollution Dilemma in Victorian England Dr Leslie Rosenthal, 2014-04-28 Nineteenth century Britain witnessed a dramatic increase in its town population as a hitherto largely rural economy transformed itself into an urban one Though the political and social issues arising from these events are well known little is known about how the British legal process coped with the everyday strains that emerged from the unprecedented scale of these changes This book explores the river pollution dilemma faced by the British courts during the second half of the nineteenth century when the legal process had to confront the new incompatible realities arising from the increasing amounts of untreatable waste flowing into the rivers This dilemma struck at the heart of both Victorian urban and rural society as the necessary sanitary reformation of the swelling cities and expanding industry increasingly poisoned the rivers threatening the countryside and agricultural rents and livelihoods Focusing on ten legal disputes the book investigates the dilemma that faced the courts namely how to protect the traditional and valued rights of landholders whose rivers and lands were being polluted by industrial waste and untreated sewage whilst not hindering the progress of sanitary reform and economic progress in the towns The case studies considered involve major industrialising centres such as Birmingham Leeds Northampton Wolverhampton and Barnsley but also include smaller towns such as Tunbridge Wells Leamington Spa and Harrogate The fundamental issues raised remain as important today as they did in Victorian times The need for the courts to balance a variety of conflicting needs and rights within the limits of contemporary technological capabilities often played out in surprising ways with outcomes not always in line with theoretical expectations As such the historical context of the disputes provide fascinating insights into nineteenth century legal process and the environmental and social attitudes of the times about how plants and animals live in the estuary Microbiologists will describe the tiny microscopic plants and animals that live in the estuary what makes them grow how important they are as food for animals and why they are sometimes poisonous Fish scientists will describe the many kinds of fish in the estuary and how we measure their growth determine where they are what they eat and the ways they use both fresh and saltwater habitats to grow and raise their young In the fifth section scientists will discuss how invasions of plants and animals from outside of the estuary have changed habitats and the survival of native plants and animals Lastly in the sixth section we will share how scientists in the estuary are using new technologies and management actions to control invasions of unwanted plants and animals increase the growth of native plants and animals improve water quality and restore habitats in the estuary
