From The Heart Of Whatcom:

The Nature of Home Greta Gaard, 2018-02-15 As long as humans have been around we've had to move in order to survive. So arises that most universal and elemental human longing for home and so begins Greta Gaard's exploration of just precisely what it means to be at home in the world. Gaard journeys through the deserts of southern California through the High Sierras the Wind River Mountains and the Northern Cascades through the wildlands and waterways of Washington and Minnesota through snow season rain season mud season and lilac season yet her essays transcend mere description of natural beauty to investigate the interplay between place and identity. Gaard examines the earliest environments of childhood and the relocations of adulthood expanding the feminist insight that identity is formed through relationships to include relationships to place. Home becomes not a static noun but an active verb the process of cultivating the connections with place and people that shape who we become. Striving to create a sense of home Gaard involves herself socially culturally and ecologically within her communities discovering that as she works to change her environment her environment changes her. As Gaard investigates environmental concerns such as water quality oil spills or logging she touches on their parallels to community issues such as racism classism and sexism uncovering the dynamic interaction by which humans like other life on earth both shape and are shaped by our environments. While maintaining an understanding of the complex systems and structures that govern communities and environments Gaard's writing delves deeper to reveal the experiences and realities we displace through euphemisms or stereotypes presenting issues such as homelessness or hunger with compelling honesty and sensitivity. Gaard's essays form a quest narrative expressing the process of letting go that is an inherent part of an impermanent life. And when a person is broken in the aftermath of that letting go it is a place that holds the pieces together. As long as we are forced to move by economics by war by colonialism the strategies we possess to make and redefine home are imperative to our survival and vital in the shaping of our very identities.
