Kennedy Wins Race; Rafterly Appointed Victor Over Kuchel

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., won the California Senate race today, defeating Republican challenger William Kuchel in a close contest. Kennedy's victory was secured by a narrow margin in the state's 40 electoral college votes. The race was one of the most closely watched in the nation, with Kennedy leading Kuchel for much of the campaign. Kennedy's win is seen as a significant political event, particularly in light of the recent assassination attempt on him. The election results were announced after a long and contentious counting process. Kennedy's campaign manager, Robert F. Kennedy Jr., expressed relief and joy at the outcome. Kuchel, who had a strong lead in the polls for much of the race, conceded defeat to Kennedy. The victory is expected to have major implications for the balance of power in the U.S. Senate.

Kennedy Shooting May Alter Nature of '68 Campaign

The assassination attempt on Sen. Edward Kennedy today may significantly alter the nature of the 1968 presidential campaign. Kennedy's injury, which is believed to be life-threatening, has raised questions about his ability to continue in the race. His opponent, Sen. William Kuchel, is expected to gain momentum in the weeks following the attack. The shooting has also drawn attention to the security of political figures and the potential for violence during the campaign season. Analysts predict that the race will become more focused on the candidates' positions on law and order and national security.

REPORTER INDICTS HIMSELF AND PASSENGERS FOR DOING NOTHING

A Los Angeles Times reporter has been indicted for failing to act during the assassination attempt on Sen. Edward Kennedy. The reporter, along with several passengers on the plane, is accused of not taking any action to help the senator when he was shot. The indictment is a rare case of a journalist being charged with a crime. The reporter's defense attorney has argued that the reporter was not trained to handle such a situation and that his primary duty was to report the news. The case has raised questions about the legal responsibilities of journalists and passengers in emergency situations.

TRANSPORTING OF CARDS DELAYED

The flow of ballots to the computer system for the 1968 election has been significantly delayed. The delay is due to technical problems with the computer system, which is supposed to process the ballots quickly and accurately. Election officials are working to resolve the issues as soon as possible to ensure that the election is held on schedule. The delay has caused concern among voters and election officials alike, as it could lead to confusion and potential errors in the counting process. The computer system is a key component of the election process, and any delay could have major implications for the results.
