From Spaniard To Creole The Archaeology Of Cultural Formation At Puerto Real Haiti:

From Spaniard to Creole Charles Ewen, 1991-02-28 While most studies of intercultural contact focus on the impact of the intrusive power on the native culture this book examines the effects of the colonization process on the Spaniards in the New World during the 16th century The site of Puerto Real on the north coast of Haiti serves as a case study Based on the results of excavations at both Puerto Real and St Augustine Florida this study suggests that the introduction of New World and African cultural elements into Spanish colonial culture began almost at contact The model of acculturative processes developed in St Augustine and tested at Puerto Real can serve to guide future Spanish colonial research It can also be applied to non Hispanic colonial sites in the New World Did the French and British adapt to their new environments in a manner similar to the Spanish Work done at Puerto Real demonstrates the utility of archaeology in the study of the effects of culture contact From Spaniard to Creole Charles R. Ewen, 1991-01-01

Archaeologies of Slavery and Freedom in the Caribbean Lynsey A. Bates, John M. Chenoweth, James A.

Delle, 2018-09-12 While the patterns of habitation and development are similar throughout the Caribbean there was also a great deal of diversity The authors in this volume use innovative techniques and perspectives to reveal the stories of places and times where the usual rules did not always apply Domestic Architecture and Power Ross W. Jamieson, 2005-12-08 Historical archaeology one of the fastest growing of archaeology's sub fields in North America has developed more slowly in Central and particularly South America Happily this circumstance is ending as a growing number of recent projects are successfully integrating textual and material culture data in studies of the events and processes of the last 500 years This interval and this region often called Ibero America have been studied for a century or more by historians with traditional perspectives and emphases focusing on colonial elites and large scale politico economic events Such inclinations fit well into world system and other core periphery models that have had a major impact on historical thought since the 1970s Over the past 20 years or so however world system models have come under fire from historians anthropologists and others in part because the emphasis on global trends and the growth of capitalism nixes the importance of understanding variability in local histories and circumstances Historians have increasingly turned their attention to local rural and domestic contexts thereby illuminating the great diversity of responses to colonial domination that were played out in the vast arena of the Americas It is not coincidental that this is the intellectual climate in which historical archaeology is establishing itself in Central and South America Setting the Table Kathryn L. Ness, 2016-12-12 A long needed comparison between Spanish and Spanish colonial sites showing how both inform us about Spanish identity at home and abroad Charles R Ewen coeditor of Pieces of Eight More Archaeology of Piracy The first systematic attempt to consider the eighteenth century archaeological record in

Spain and measure it against the decades long research in St Augustine It is long overdue and valuable Russell K Skowronek coauthor of Ceramic Production in Early Hispanic California Craft Economy and Trade on the Frontier of New Spain Examining ceramics from eighteenth century household sites in Jerez de la Frontera Spain and St Augustine Florida Setting the Table opens up new interpretations of cultural exchange change and identity in the early modern Spanish empire This trans Atlantic perspective sheds light on the largely underrepresented connections between the Spanish Empire and its Atlantic territories as well as the ways that Spanish and Spanish American culture came together to create something new and distinct To analyze and compare tableware from these far removed locations Kathryn Ness proposes and employs a new vessel based classification system to bridge the differences between existing systems Her findings show that on both sides of the Atlantic similar major changes to dining practices and foodways developed at almost the same time Ness argues that the people of Spain and the Spanish Americas influenced each other reinterpreting and incorporating new ideas that reflected traditional Spanish culture while also assimilating French fashions such as matching ceramics and British items such as tea They were creating and expressing a distinct Spanish Atlantic identity that retained some traditions from the home country while welcoming new ideas from an increasingly global network A volume in the Florida Museum of Natural History Ripley P Bullen Series
