Interdisciplinary Group for Historical Literary Study,1996 This pathbreaking work uses the approaching conclusion of the second millennium as a context for discussing questions concerning temporal division and narrative continuity It investigates assumptions about teleology and eschatology while exploring the ways in which temporal division affects the creation and production of cultural texts and reciprocally the ways in which narrative techniques forms and conventions shape explain and justify history Through this exploration the volume examines how temporal thresholds tend simultaneously to reinforce and to disrupt conceptual boundaries The sixteen essays use the significance typically invested in historical junctures marked by a centenary advance to investigate perceived paradigm shifts and the consequent reactions to these implicit and explicit transitions By doing so they also seek to illuminate the relations between narrative and history and to enhance understanding of our present historical moment

So Dreadfull a Judgment Richard Slotkin,James K. Folsom,1978 A classic selection of materials on Philip s War For the newly established New England colonies the war with the Indians of 1675 77 was a catastrophe that pushed the settlements perilously close to worldly ruin Moreover it seemed to call into question the religious mission and spiritual status of a group that considered itself a Chosen People carrying out a divinely inspired errand into the wilderness Seven texts reprinted here reveal efforts of Puritan writers to make sense of King Philip s War Largely unavailable since the 19th century they represent the various divisions of Puritan society and literary forms typical of Puritan writing from which emerged some of the most vital genres of American popular writing Thoroughly annotated the book contains a general introduction and introductions to each text

Distant Horizon Gary Noy,1999-01-01 The West has figured in the American imagination under many guises as the last best place on earth a refuge an escape a land of opportunity but also as a place of conquest and failure Where Lewis and Clark saw great possibilities Native cultures found disappointment and loss This collection presents the diverse and often contradictory accounts that make up the mosaic of the nineteenth century American West From Thomas Hart Benton s famous speech in the Senate when he argued that non white civilizations must fall before the western expansion of white Americans to Black Elk s story of a way of life lost on the frozen ground at Wounded Knee Gary Noy offers a representative sampling of the many Wests that historians have struggled to define for over a century Distant Horizon chronicles the dusty world of the cowboy the hard scrabble existence of the farmer and the settler and the miner s vision of golden glory It examines the independent nature of the explorer and mountain man and the sometimes heroic sometimes cruel existence of the soldier We hear the voices of those outside the mainstream of power women and Westerners of color and explore the most tragic element of Western history the confinement subjugation and extermination of Native Americans No other single volume provides as many readings on as many topics in the history of the American West
