Handbook of Research on Economic and Social Well-Being Conchita D'Ambrosio, 2018-03-30 The past decade has been characterized by a burgeoning interest in new concepts of individual and social well being The impetus for this new research has stemmed from increased demand from policy makers and civil society for measures of progress that go beyond the traditional measures of GDP as well as improved datasets allowing individuals and households to be tracked over their life course The aim of this Handbook is to chart these developments and provide extensive surveys of many of the recent themes that have emerged in the research literature Some of the topics addressed include poverty relative deprivation and satisfaction economic insecurity social exclusion and inequality income and social polarization and social fractionalization and diversity Each topic is first analyzed from a theoretical perspective followed by detailed empirical discussion Land, Livelihood, the Economy and the Environment in Indonesia Anne Booth, Chris Manning, Thee Kian Wie, 2012 This volume of essays is intended to honour an exceptional indeed a unique scholar Joan Hardjono grew up in Sydney and graduated from Sydney University in the mid 1950s She majored in English and Geography and like most girls in those years who had managed to complete a tertiary degree she probably expected to embark on a career as a high school teacher in Australia But no doubt prompted by the spirit of adventure which she has kept throughout her long career she decided to go to Indonesia as a volunteer teacher The scheme which brought young Australian graduates to Indonesia at that time was pioneering it pre dated the US Peace Corps and several of the participants went on to distinguished academic careers On the boat from Australia to Indonesia she met a young Indonesian called Hardjono who after participating in the struggle against the Dutch in the late 1940s gained an engineering degree at the Institute of Technology in Bandung then as now Indonesia's leading tertiary institute for the study of engineering and technology Joan was posted to teach in Semarang the capital of the province of Central Java and family legend has it that Hardjono used a borrowed motor cycle to pay her frequent visits bringing with him Javanese delicacies as gifts Since the late 1980s Joan has been busy as a consultant to a number of bilateral and multilateral aid agencies She has retired as a university teacher but served for several years as an active member of the advisory board of a Bandung based research organization AKATIGA She has also served since its inception in early 2001 on both the Board of Trustees and the Advisory Board of the Jakarta based research group The SMERU Research Institute The editors are pleased that four chapters in this volume have been contributed by staff of these two institutions Joan continues to be an active member of the SMERU boards and in her advisory role she has always stressed that SMERU should focus on what it does best namely conducting solid research on the problems of poverty social protection and unemployment rather than engaging in policy advocacy She worked very hard editing the institute's first international publication Poverty and Social Protection in Indonesia which was published by the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies in Singapore in 2011 Joan has often regretted the fact that so few Indonesian social scientists publish internationally and has assisted a number of scholars over the years to turn their research findings into publishable papers in English language outlets Like many Indonesians in her age group Joan has at times been disappointed that the country's macroeconomic progress over the last four decades has not yet achieved the elusive goal of a just and prosperous society To friends she can be at times very critical of the performance of politicians and senior bureaucrats both during the Suharto era and subsequently But she would be the last to deny that some progress has been made She continues to visit Australia on a regular basis but Bandung remains her home and she remains steadfast in her love for and commitment to the people of Indonesia Food Security Basudeb Guha-Khasnobis, Shabd S. Acharya, Benjamin Davis, 2007-12-20 Result of a joint project meeting between UNU WIDER and the Indian Council of Social Science Research ICSSR with research contributions from

East Asia Integrates Kathie Krumm, Homi Kharas, 2004-01-01 Emerging East Asian economies have seen their share of world exports more than triple during the past quarter century and intraregional trade has driven this growth Broad measures of development in East Asia have improved at the same headlong pace Why push further integration now Two economic events of historic proportions provide the context strategic thinking of development in the region following the East Asian financial crisis of 1997-98 and the accession of China to the World Trade Organization Policymakers interested in a stable prosperous region are concerned by mildly rising inequality within countries and a widening gap between richer economies and the poorest economies Increasingly the development agenda in the region with its focus on growth jobs and social stability and the trade policy agenda with its focus on market access and competitiveness have become intertwined East Asian policymakers seek to develop a coherent set of economic policies that can deliver stability growth and regional integration Without attempting to be comprehensive East Asia Integrates offers fundamental strategies that promote cross border flows of trade along with domestic policies on logistics trade facilitation standards and institutions to maximize the impact of these flows on development and distribute the gains from trade widely As the authors demonstrate multilateral and regional trade initiatives must provide a compelling vision of how integration can deliver broadly shared growth and prosperity if they are to succeed In addition they must use the momentum offered by trade agreements to address the links between trade on the one hand and social stability poverty reduction and growth on the other

Household Welfare Impacts of China's Accession to the World Trade Organization Martin Ravallion, 2003 Abstract Chen and Ravallion use China's national household surveys for rural and urban areas to measure and explain the welfare impacts of the changes in goods and factor prices attributed to WTO accession Price changes are estimated separately using a general equilibrium model to capture both direct and indirect effects of the initial tariff changes The welfare impacts are first order approximations based on a household model incorporating own production activities and are calibrated to the household level data imposing minimum aggregation The authors find negligible impacts on inequality and poverty in the aggregate However diverse impacts emerge across household types and regions associated with heterogeneity in consumption behavior and income sources with possible implications for compensatory policy responses This paper a product of the Poverty Team Development Research Group is part of a larger effort in the group to assess the household welfare impacts of economywide policy changes

Social Aspects of Asian Economic Growth Gordon Redding, Chris Rowley, 2018-10-16 There are in simple terms three principal kinds of capital that come necessarily into play when a society is evolving towards improving the lives livelihoods and qualities of life of its people The first form of capital is financial this normally includes physical forms of invested money in plant buildings and infrastructure The second form of capital is human seen simply as the level and range of skills and capabilities that are available for use in the society When people are literate numerate skilled experienced informed cooperative and inquisitive they and their societies can do much more The third form of capital is social Here cooperativeness shows its effects and the rules of how that works vary greatly between societies It is the second of these elements human capital that is the main focus of this book but it overlaps with social capital extensively in these accounts and can only be understood in terms of its connections into the wider societal system The varying patterns of its workings and influence in different Asian contexts are explained against the background of a theory of societal progress This book was originally published as a special issue of the Asia Pacific Business Review
