African Economies and the Politics of Permanent Crisis, 1979-1999 Nicolas Van de Walle,2001-09-24 This 2001 book explains why African countries have remained mired in a disastrous economic crisis since the late 1970s It shows that dynamics internal to African state structures largely explain this failure to overcome economic difficulties rather than external pressures on these same structures as is often argued Far from being prevented from undertaking reforms by societal interest and pressure groups clientelism within the state elite ideological factors and low state capacity have resulted in some limited reform but much prevarication and manipulation of the reform process by governments which do not really believe that reform will be effective which often oppose reforms because they would undercut the patronage and rent seeking practices which undergird political authority and which lack the administrative and technical capacity to implement much reform Over time state decay has increased

Modernization and the Crisis of Development in Africa Jeremiah I. Democratization in Africa Larry Diamond, Marc F. Plattner, 2010-03-29 Weiss Christopher Wyrod Daniel J Young Knowledge, Productivity, and Innovation in Nigeria Ismail Radwan, Giulia Pellegrini, 2010-03-09 Nigeria has a bold national vision of becoming one of the world's top 20 economies by 2020 However despite being the 8th most populous country in the world it ranks 41st in terms of GDP and 161st in terms of GDP per capita Nigeria has long depended on oil for its exports and government revenues This dependence has led to rent seeking and a reluctance to examine potential avenues for economic diversification The authors of Knowledge Productivity and Innovation in Nigeria believe that the goal of becoming a top twenty economy can only be achieved if Nigeria makes the transition to a new economy rooted in the 21st century that harnesses the power of knowledge and avoids a static oil based growth strategy Knowledge has always been central to development but new technologies have made it globally accessible Countries such as the Republic of South Korea India and the United States that have exploited new technologies and know how have pushed their innovation and productivity frontiers Countries that have failed to do so risk remaining mired in poverty In order to achieve Vision 2020 Nigeria must move beyond the stop start patterns of oil based development that have characterized it since independence It must create a stable and prosperous economy based on a critical mass of knowledge workers Knowledge Productivity and

Globalization, Democracy and Oil Sector Reform in Nigeria Adeoye O. Akinola, 2018-01-26 The Nigerian state has been oil rich for decades and yet perennially incapable of converting its oil resources into wealth for ordinary Nigerians Adeoye O Akinola tackles this vexed oil question by examining the political economy of efforts to deregulate the Nigerian downstream oil industry Focusing on themes of globalization and democratization this book considers how a resource rich developing country like Nigeria can exploit the opportunities of globalization and navigate the pressures of democratization and the challenges of liberalization Pairing sophisticated theoretical frameworks with firsthand accounts from actors in the oil industry this book identifies the root causes of Nigeria's development struggles and offers practical policy solutions for successfully deregulating the oil sector For public officials and policymakers as well as researchers this book offers a critical new lens on the future of natural resource management in Nigeria and the Global South

New Directions in Development Economics Mats Lundahl, Benno Ndulu, 2005-08-10 This volume is divided into two thematic parts economic growth or its absence in developing countries and contributions to the debate on the role of the state versus the market It outlines possible policy prescriptions of relevance both in the North and South

The Changing Forms of Identity Politics in Nigeria Under Economic Adjustment Cyril I. Obi, 2001 The Niger delta region of Nigeria which is at the heart of the country's oil industry has a long history of struggles for self determination dating back to the early years of the 20th century In the 1980s and 1990s these struggles unfolding as they did within the context of military authoritarianism and structural adjustment took the form of widespread agitation for greater control by local communities of the revenues accruing to the Nigerian state from exploration and extraction of oil This study attempts to capture the transformations in ethnic minority identity politics in the oil producing areas of the Niger delta In doing this attention is simultaneously drawn to the factors informing the shift from peaceful agitation to violent protest as well as the dynamic of decay and renewal in the various ethnic minority movements that are active in the delta It is suggested that part of the solution to the crisis in the delta will involve not only a thorough going restructuring of the Nigerian state but also the re orientation of the mode of operation of the giant oil multinationals in order to make them both more sensitive and accountable to the local communities
