Human Rights Albert A. Zinnos, 2007 Human rights refers to the concept of human beings as having universal rights or status regardless of legal jurisdiction and likewise other localising factors such as ethnicity and nationality For many the concept of human rights is based in religious principles However because a formal concept of human rights has not been universally accepted the term has some degree of variance between its use in different local jurisdictions difference in both meaningful substance as well as in protocols for and styles of application Ultimately the most general meaning of the term is one which can only apply universally and hence the term human rights is often itself an appeal to such transcended principles without basing such on existing legal concepts The term humanism refers to the developing doctrine of such universally applicable values and it is on the basic concept that human beings have innate rights that more specific local legal concepts are often based Within particular societies human rights refers to standards of behaviour as accepted within their respective legal systems regarding 1 the well being of individuals 2 the freedom and autonomy of individuals and 3 the representation of the human interest in government These rights commonly include the right to life the right to an adequate standard of living the prohibition of genocide freedom from torture and other mistreatment freedom of expression freedom of movement the right to self determination the right to education and the right to participation in cultural and political life These norms are based on the legal and political traditions of United Nations member states and are incorporated into international human rights instruments This new book brings together the latest book literature centred on this crucial topic

Sprading,2015-04-15 In 1913 Charles T Sprading 1871 1959 wrote a book of remarkable prescience that anticipated the systematic development of an American libertarian tradition He called it Liberty and the Great Libertarians What he provided was a biography and intellectual analysis of some thirty great thinkers Most valuable is his extraordinary job of editing He chooses the best and most enlightening of their writings and brings them to life The thinkers covered include Edmund Burke Thomas Paine Thomas Jefferson William Godwin Wilhelm von Humboldt John Stuart Mill Ralph Waldo Emerson William Lloyd Garrison Wendell Phillips Josiah Warren Max Stirner Henry D Thoreau Herbert Spencer Lysander Spooner Henry George Benjamin Tucker Pierre Kropotkin Abraham Lincoln Auberon Herbert G Bernard Shaw Oscar Wilde Maria Montessori and others Now not all of these people would be considered libertarians by the modern understanding Some even called themselves socialists as absurd as that may sound to us today But they all exhibited in their writings a deep and abiding attachment to the idea of human liberty They agree in the primacy of the individual They agreed that the greatest threat to individual rights is the state And they believed in fighting for these rights They believed in the freedom of assembly freedom of press freedom of religion freedom to think and act They hated war and social control They rejected every form of authoritarianism and in all these areas they made huge contributions As Spradling says in his introduction The greatest violator of the principle of equal liberty is the State Its functions are to control to rule to dictate to regulate and in exercising these functions it interferes with and injures individuals who have done no wrong The objection to government is not that it controls those who invade the liberty of others but that it controls the non invader It may be necessary to govern one who will not govern himself but that in no wise justifies governing one who is capable of and willing to govern himself To argue that because some need restraint all must be restrained is neither consistent nor logical Governments cannot accept liberty as their fundamental basis for justice because governments rest upon authority and not upon liberty To accept liberty as the fundamental basis is to discard authority that is to discard government itself as this would mean the dethronement of the leaders of government we can expect only those who have no economic compromises to make to accept equal liberty as the basis of justice The introduction alone is extraordinary given the times On war he writes How is war to be abolished By going to war Is bloodshed to be stopped by the shedding of blood No the way to stop war is to stop going to war stop supporting it and it will fall just as slavery did just as the Inquisition did The end of war is in sight there will be no more world wars The laboring man who has always done the fighting is losing his patriotism he is beginning to realize that he has no country or much of anything else to fight for and is beginning to decline the honor of being killed for the glory and profits of the few Those who profit by war those who own the country will not fight for it that is they are not patriotic if it is necessary for them to do the killing or to be killed in war In all the wars of history there are very few instances of the rich meeting their death on the battlefield This is a fat book 542 pages with a vast index It remains the best chronicle of libertarian thought ever put together which is why Murray Rothbard chose this book as one of his favorites This edition is a reprint of the original 1913 volume     The Eighteenth Century ,1998
