Education, Income, and Human Capital. Ed. by H W. Lee Hansen, 1970 Human Capital Gary S. Becker, 2009-05-15 Human Capital is Becker's classic study of how investment in an individual's education and training is similar to business investments in equipment Recipient of the 1992 Nobel Prize in Economic Science Gary S. Becker is a pioneer of applying economic analysis to human behavior in such areas as discrimination marriage family relations and education Becker's research on human capital was considered by the Nobel committee to be his most noteworthy contribution to economics This expanded edition includes four new chapters covering recent ideas about human capital fertility and economic growth the division of labor economic considerations within the family and inequality in earnings Critics have charged that Mr. Becker's style of thinking reduces humans to economic entities Nothing could be further from the truth Mr. Becker gives people credit for having the power to reason and seek out their own best destiny Wall Street Journal Education, Income, and Human Behavior Albert E. Beaton, Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, National Bureau of Economic Research, 1974 Monograph comprising essays on the impact of educational level on income and behaviour among university graduates in the USA covers cost benefit analysis of the returns to investment in higher education examines the impact of schooling on social adjustment and discusses the role of intelligence quotients and cultural factors attitudes sociological aspects etc References and statistical tables Education, Income, and Human Behavior Albert E. Human Capital Policy David Neumark, Sang-Hyop Lee, 2021-02-26 This timely book evaluates international human capital policies offering a comparative perspective on global efforts to generate new ideas and novel ways of thinking about human capital Examining educational reforms quality of education and links between education and socio-economic environments chapters contrast Western experiences and perspectives with those of industrializing economies in Asia focusing particularly on Korea and the USA Economics of Education George Psacharopoulos, 2014-05-17 Economics of Education Research and

Studies reviews key topics in the field of economics of education since 1960s This book is organized into 12 parts Part I and Part II focus on the supply side of human capital and narrower aspects of human capital creation by means of education Subsequent parts look at the benefits of education relationship between education and employment controversies in the field of economics of education issues of manpower planning and methodology for empirically analyzing the issues in the economics of education The last two parts address the costs of education with emphasis on cost function analysis and on the financing of education Educational Input, Resource Allocation and Returns to Human Capital Weifang Min,2025-07-01

This comprehensive study provides a groundbreaking analysis of China s educational landscape and its impact on human capital development revealing how education shapes economic growth social mobility and workforce productivity Through rigorous research and empirical evidence the book demonstrates education s role as a powerful tool for enhancing career mobility and workplace productivity reducing job search time for graduates and creating pathways to reduce income inequality With detailed insights into resource allocation educational equity and human capital returns this book offers invaluable perspectives for policymakers educators and researchers committed to understanding and improving educational outcomes in China Economic Development and Export of Human Capital. A Contradiction? Nadim Zaqqqa,2006

Hypothesises that there is a positive result concerning an investment in higher education even when that person leaves the country and that a policy aiming at a surplus of graduates can be seen as an export strategy Develops a cost benefit approach to evaluate data collected among Jordanian teachers engineers IT specialists and physicians about their remittances from abroad and their repatriated savings when returning to their home country Human Resources in Japanese Industrial Development Hisashi Kawada,Solomon B. Levine,2014-07-14 By focusing on the educational and skill training institutions Japan has developed to generate human resources for modern industry this book represents a new contribution to the historical analysis of Japan s modern economic growth The authors concentrate on those large scale industries that seem to pose the greatest challenges for an agrarian society such as Japan was in the 1870 s in order to show how an economically less developed country becomes an advanced industrialized nation Originally published in 1980 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific Wendy Dobson,2013-07-18 The entire planet looks to Asian and other emerging markets to sustain growth momentum as traditional markets in the USA and Europe struggle with the slow and arduous processes of deleveraging after the global financial crisis At the same time there is growing recognition in Asia that the sources of growth must shift to sustain their own growth momentum in the years ahead Heavy reliance on the region's high savings rates and plentiful supplies of low cost labour will have to shift towards increasing the human capital embodied in more educated and skilled labour forces capable of contributing to productivity growth and innovation as future drivers of growth Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific focuses on why and how countries are making this shift The demographic transition is shown to be a significant factor as ageing populations in Japan South Korea and China manage declining growth in the labour force by stepping up investments in education and by changing policies and institutions Lessons to be learned from these experiences by more youthful populations in Southeast Asia are explored In addition attention is paid to the consequences of cross border differentials in technical knowledge and the quantity and quality of human capital Several implications for public policy and for international cooperation on human capital issues in the Asian region are identified The chapters in this volume are edited versions of papers presented at the 35th Pacific Trade and Development conference held in Vancouver Canada in June 2012 The conference goal was to better understand how governments and business in Asia and the Pacific can apply the key insight that one of the reasons economies grow is because of human capital formation the quality and diversity of the labour force are augmented not just because the labour force grows in size Students of Asia's growth prospects will find several aspects of this volume of particular value It includes chapters on the big picture conceptual and measurement issues on country experiences in meeting the imperatives of the demographic transition and investing in education and skills training and on country experiences with attracting foreign knowledge and the supply and recruitment of skills across borders in Asia and the Pacific Policymakers will also find useful the discussions of policy implications and the menu of issues requiring intergovernmental cooperation within the Asian region

Cost-sharing and Accessibility in Higher Education: A Fairer Deal? Pedro N. Teixeira,D. Bruce Johnstone,Maria J. Rosa,Hans Vossensteyn,2007-11-23 Higher education finances lie at the crossroads in many Western countries Hence worldwide the most common approach to the need for increasing revenue was to use some form or forms of cost sharing or the shift of some of the higher educational per student costs from governments and taxpayers to parents and students This raises several important challenges to higher education systems First there is the political and social controversy associated with most forms of cost sharing particularly with tuition fees Secondly there are important issues in terms of the broad context of social policy such as the role of families and students and the relationship that the state establishes with each of them Third there is the comparison of alternative instruments of cost sharing and the direct and indirect effects of each of them notably in terms of educational equality Overall underlying cost sharing debates are fundamental questions about social choice individual opportunities and the role of government in society
