Integrating

Assessment into Early Language Learning and Teaching Danijela Prošić-Santovac, Shelagh Rixon, 2019-08-07 The volume unites research and practice on integrating language learning teaching and assessment at preschool and early school age. It includes chapters written by experts in the field who have studied some of the very youngest pre primary children through to those up to the age of 12 in a variety of private and state contexts across Europe. The collection makes a much needed contribution to the subject of appropriate assessment for children with the focus of many chapters being classroom based assessment particularly formative assessment or the case for developing assessment skills in relation to even the youngest children. As a whole the book provides useful case study insights for policymakers teacher educators researchers and postgraduate students with interest in or responsibility for how children are assessed in their language learning. It also provides practical ideas for practitioners who wish to implement greater integration of assessment and learning in their own contexts.

Learning Technologies and the Body Victor R. Lee, 2014-11-27 This volume explores how technology supported learning environments can incorporate physical activity and interactive experiences in formal education. It presents cutting edge research and design work on a new generation of body centric technologies such as wearable body sensors GPS tracking devices interactive display surfaces video game controller devices and humanlike avatars. Contributors discuss how and why each of these technologies can be used in service of learning within K 12 classrooms and at home in museums and online. Citing examples of empirical evidence and specific implementation this timely and critical volume examines how body responsive technologies are being used within the educational community to advance the next generation of educational technology.
