Pathways Kevin J. A. Thomas, 2014-06-01 Africans are among the fastest growing immigrant groups in the United States Although they are racially and ethnically diverse few studies have examined how these differences affect their patterns of incorporation into society This book is the first to highlight the role of race and ethnicity Arab ethnicity in particular in shaping the experiences of African immigrants It demonstrates that American conceptions of race result in significant inequalities in the ways in which African immigrants are socially integrated Thomas argues that suggestions that Black Africans are model minorities who have overcome the barriers of race are misleading showing that Black and Arab ethnicity Africans systematically experience less favorable socioeconomic outcomes than their White African counterparts Overall the book makes three critical arguments First historical and contemporary constructions of race have important implications for understanding the dynamics of African immigration and settlement in the United States Second there are significant racial inequalities in the social and economic incorporation of contemporary African immigrants Finally Arab ethnicity has additional implications for understanding intra racial disparities in incorporation among contemporary African immigrants In general these arguments are foundational for understanding the diversity of African immigrant experiences The Oxford
