George Gershwin Walter Rimler, 2011-02-16 George Gershwin lived with purpose and gusto but with melancholy as well for he was unable to make a place for himself no family of his own and no real home in music He and his siblings received little love from their mother and no direction from their father Older brother and lyricist Ira managed to create a home when he married Leonore Strunsky a hard-edged woman who lived for wealth and status The closest George came to domesticity was through his longtime relationship with Kay Swift She was his lover musical confidante and fellow composer But she remained married to another man while he went endlessly from woman to woman Only in the final hours of his life when they were separated by a continent did he realize how much he needed her Fatally ill unprotected by and perhaps estranged from Ira he was exiled by Leonore from the house she and the brothers shared and he died horribly and alone at the age of thirty-eight Nor was Gershwin able to find a satisfying musical harbor For years his songwriting genius could be expressed only in the ephemeral world of show business as his brilliance as a composer of large-scale works went unrecognized by highbrow music critics When he resolved this quandary with his opera Porgy and Bess the critics were unable to understand or validate it Decades would pass before this his most ambitious composition was universally regarded as one of music's lasting
