Committee E6 On performance of Building Constructions, A Comparison of Fire Resistive Coatings in ASTM E 119 and Proposed ASTM E 5 Hydrocarbon Pool-Fire Test Environments OK. Gratzol, MC. Diliberto,1983
The exposure of proprietary fireproofing materials and concrete to the proposed ASTM Standard Hydrocarbon Pool Fire Test Environments E 5 does not exhibit any significant difference for thermal shock from ASTM Fire Tests of Building Construction and Materials E 119 76 Evaluation of Fire Resistive Coatings Based on Small-Scale Fire Testing N. Schultz,1983 Economics and short time factors have forced many manufacturers of fire resistive coatings to use small scale fire tests in accordance with ASTM Standard Method of Fire Tests of Building Construction and Materials E 119 81 time temperature curve The difference between small size and full size furnaces is not so much in the geometry as it is in the construction Insulation burners and fuel type are influencing factors when making a comparative analysis The American Iron and Steel Institute AISI used a full size column furnace and a small column furnace in one of their programs The correlation between data was substantial enough to focus the attention on using the small furnace as a valid means of testing Fire Resistive Coatings Morris Lieff, Frank M. Stumpf,1983 Intumescent Coatings for Fire Protection of Building Structures and Materials Olga Zybyna, Marina Gravit,2020-11-04 The book provides practical recommendations for creation of fire retardant materials with an increased service life The enhanced fire resistance seen in these materials is based on the regularities of the chemical and physicochemical interaction of the components of intumescent composition in the process of thermolytic synthesis of heat insulating char foamed layers The aim of fire protection of various objects with intumescent materials is to create a heat insulating charred layer on the surface of structural elements this layer can withstand high temperatures and mechanical damage which are typical during fires The authors describe the contribution of basic components melamine pentaerythritol ammonium polyphosphate additional components chlorinated paraffin urea cellulose carbon nano additives etc and polymer binders of intumescent compositions on the process of charring The technological aspects of manufacturing application and operation of fire retardant intumescent compositions which can be useful for organizations that produce and use fire retardant materials are also described New Concepts for Coating Protection of Steel Structures D. M. Berger, ASTM Committee D-1 on Paint and Related Coatings and Material, 1984 Fire Resistive Coatings in the USSR M. Lieff, 1983 The use of fire resistive coatings in wood and steel construction is reviewed by the author who visited the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics USSR in July 1981 as a member of the US USSR Panel on Fire Protection Included are English translations of two Soviet standards GOST for Fire Protective Phosphate Coatings for Wood and for Steel
