Fire Hazel Rossotti,2002 Fire Hazel Rossotti,1993 The author of Color presents a lively look at the many aspects of fire From its scientific and technological facets to its historical environmental religious and philosophical connections the immensely varied phenomenon called fire is shown in an illustrated portrait designed to educate and entertain 32 pages of color plates 90 halftones and line drawings Fire Hazel Rossotti,2002-05-01 This fascinating study examines the nature of fire its symbolic significance exploitation and control Lively well illustrated text explores the use of fire for comfort in ancient forms of worship more Criminal Investigation James W. Osterburg,Richard H. Ward,2013-04-29 This text presents the fundamentals of criminal investigation and provides a sound method for reconstructing a past event i e a crime based on three major sources of information people records and physical evidence Its tried and true system for conducting an investigation is updated with the latest techniques available teaching the reader new ways of obtaining information from people including mining the social media outlets now used by a broad spectrum of the public how to navigate the labyrinth of records and files currently available online and fresh ways of gathering identifying and analyzing physical evidence F. C. Baur's Synthesis of Böhme and Hegel Corneliu Simut,2014-10-16 In this book Professor Simu shows how Christian theology started to be understood as a Gnostic philosophy of religion in the thought of the 19th century scholar F C Baur Although Baur was seen traditionally as a theologian and biblical exegete Simu argues that he was in fact a philosopher of religion and it was his philosophical reading of Christian theology that informed his biblical preoccupations Specifically Baur's perspective on Christian theology was heavily influenced by Jakob Böhme's esoteric theosophy and Hegel's religious philosophy in some key issues such as creation Lucifer dualism and the connection between spirit and matter coupled with that between philosophy and religion Destruction Jan Driessen,2013-05-25 Destruction remains a relatively unexplored and badly understood topic in archaeology and history The term itself refers to some form and measurable degree of damage inflicted to an object a system or a being usually exceeding the stage during which repair is still possible but most often it is examined for its impact with destructive events interpreted in terms of a punctuated equilibrium extraordinary features that represent the end of an archaeological culture or historical phase and the beginning of a new one The three day international workshop of which this volume presents the proceedings took place at Louvain la Neuve in Belgium from November 24 to 26 2011 and was organized by CEMA Centre d'étude des Mondes Antiques one of the research centres within INCAL Institut de Civilisations Arts et Lettres Our aim with organising this gathering was to seriously engage with destruction as a phenomenon and how it is perceived by archaeologists historians and philologists of the ancient world The volume is similarly structured to the workshop which it reflects with first a series of more theoretical papers and then following a chronological and geographical order Introduction to Stereochemistry Kurt Martin Mislow,2002-01-01 Molecular shape form and symmetry play a central role in organic chemistry and this text presents a brief introduction to the conceptual basis of stereochemistry Its focus lies in the fundamentals of structural stereochemistry rather than the dynamic aspects that are more relevant to reaction mechanisms The three part treatment deals with structure and symmetry stereoisomerism and the separation and configuration of stereoisomers The first section reviews molecular architecture relating empirical bonding geometries to the hybridization of the central carbon atom Students receive a nonrigorous treatment of symmetry elements and point groups with particular focus on the presence or absence of reflection symmetry The second section classifies stereoisomers according to symmetry properties and to the nature of their barriers it also discusses the dependence of optical activity on structure and concludes with an examination of topological isomerism The third and final section explores the conceptual basis of asymmetric syntheses and kinetic resolutions Each of the major sections features a series of exercises that reinforce and extend the preceding material and answers are provided Preface to the Dover edition Answers to Exercises Bibliography Index
