International Relations Theory and Ecological Thought Eric Laferrière,Peter J. Stoett,2003-09-02 Ecological crises have never been higher on the international political agenda However ecological thought and international relations theory have developed as separate disciplines This ground breaking study looks at the relationship between ecological thought and international relations theory arguing that there are shared concerns peace co operation and security The authors ask what ecological crisis can teach IR theorists as well as what ecological perspectives have been adopted by governments and international NGOs

Global Ecopolitics Peter Stoett,2019-04-08 Despite sporadic news coverage of extreme weather events high level climate change diplomacy special UN days of celebration and popular media references to impending ecological collapse most students are not exposed to the detailed presentation and analysis of the international relations and diplomacy of environmental policy making Comprehensive and accessibly written for first year or second year undergraduates the second edition of Global Ecopolitics provides students with a panoramic view of the policymakers and the structuring bodies involved in the creation of environmental policies Detailing a considerable amount of environmental activity since its initial 2012 publication this up to date second edition uses an applicable framework of systemic analysis and important case studies that push students to form their own conclusions about past efforts present needs and future directions

Multidimensional Global Change Kirill I. Kovlevich Kondrat'ev, 1998-07 Multidimensional Global Change Kirill Ya Kondratyev Forty years of technological progress have had a catastrophic impact on the environment since this progress has been based on the ruthless exploitation of natural resources 20 percent of the fertile soil on cultivated land has been lost 20 per cent of tropical forests have been cleared desertification continues at a rate of 6 million hectares annually and deforestation amounts to 11 million hectares annually Economic estimations practically never take into account this depletion and damage to natural resources the harmful effect on human health the deprivation of future generations of those natural resources and the long term impact in the form of biospheric deformation In this text Kirill Kondratyev emphasises the extremely complex and interdisciplinary nature of multidimensional global change highlighting its principal aspects and many practical consequences economic social etc as well as the relationships between environmental problems on global continental and national scales He demonstrates that the main limiting factor of further quantitative development of humankind is the available biosphere resources and that the basic criterion of ecological well or ill being is the level of depletion of these resources The author highlights an acute social controversy of the modern world in that the level of biospheric resource consumption in industrially developed countries exceeds by far that in the Third World This disparity could be eliminated through advancements such as the decarbonisation of energy production and the development of new technologies However he shows that radical improvement of the situation can only be achieved by reducing the population number and establishing a new fair economic order He emphasises that when considering global change problems it is important to avoid exaggerations and he strikes a balance between the most gloomy predictions and more encouraging estimations Readership Professional scientists environmentalists and engineers concerned with research relating to global change and its consequences managers and senior engineers wishing to gain an insight into the problems caused by global change and undergraduate and postgraduate students of geography meteorology climatology atmospheric physics and environmental science
