Linguistic Representations of Gender in Children's Literature Sally Hunt, 2025-02-25 This book examines how aspects of gender and identity are represented in some of the best selling children's book series published in English over the last 100 years. Combining the quantitative methods of corpus linguistics with Critical Discourse Analytic interpretation, the author's analysis shows how gendered constructions of identity are built on uneven patterns of representation. Stories and the characters who inhabit them not only provide child readers with entertainment but also the building blocks of their identities. Linguistic choices construct representations of how to be a girl or how to be a boy, often in binary mutually exclusive terms. Hunt's critical corpus linguistic approach uncovers patterns of representation beyond the fiction author's awareness which reveal their assumptions about how girls and women behave or should behave or what boys and men do or should do. Chapters cover the gendered patterns found in how characters speak, how they express emotion and how they act on the world as well as those characters who contradict these patterns and perform their genders in different ways. The detailed analysis and its implications will be relevant to teachers of literature both at school and at university level, media researchers, lecturers and students of linguistics or gender studies and anyone interested in child development and the fiction written for children.
