Chinn,Sharon Nelson-Barber,2023-07-25 This book builds upon the range of Indigenous theory and research found in Volume I and applies these learnings to interventions in schools communities teacher education and professional development It is part of a two volume set addresses a growing recognition that interdisciplinary cross cultural and cross hybrid learning is needed to foster scientific and cultural understandings and move STEM learning toward more just and sustainable futures for all learners Authors working in Eurocentric settings of schools and colleges whether in the continental or island United States Canada Thailand Taiwan or Chuuk utilize storytelling place language and experiential learning to engage students in meaningful highly contextualized study that honors ancestral knowledge and practices They recognize that their disciplines have been structured and colonized by Eurocentric American frameworks that lack storied ethical contexts developed through living sustainably in particular places Recognizing that students seeking to enter STEM majors and careers now must be knowledgeable in multiple ways authors describe innovative ways to immerse precollege learners as well as developing and practicing teachers in settings that intersect culture place heritage language and praxis that enable Indigenous and local knowledge to become central to learning Twenty first century technologies of distance learning digital story telling and mapping technologies now enable formerly marginalized minoritized groups to share their worldviews and systems of knowledge

Style and Function Teresa D. Hurt, Gordon Rakita, 2000-10-30 The topics of style and function within evolutionary archaeology have been the subject of great debate in the field of archaeology in general over the past two decades Evolutionary archaeologists have a unique perspective on these concepts one that has sometimes been misunderstood by archaeologists working within other theoretical perspectives The dichotomy between style and function was first formulated in the late 1970s by Robert Dunnell and remains axiomatic within the theoretical perspective of evolutionary archaeology The original definitions of style and function were grounded in biological evolutionary concepts regarding neutral variation versus variation that is subject to natural selection Several chapters expand upon these concepts and explore how Darwinian evolutionary theory may be used to understand the archaeological record Other chapters demonstrate this application through empirical case studies Dunnell provides a foreword introducing and re examining his original thesis This volume is the only text devoted to the topic of style and function within the literature of evolutionary archaeology It provides not only theoretical discussions and augmentation but also significant historical background regarding the development of the style function distinction within archaeology Moreover it presents several case studies that provide examples of how evolutionary style and function may be applied to the prehistoric record Fishing Hawaii Style
