Weeks, Jason de Medeiros, 2014-11-25 The archaeological study of the ancient world has become increasingly popular in recent years A Research Guide to the Ancient World Print and Electronic Sources is a partially annotated bibliography The study of the ancient world is usually although not exclusively considered a branch of the humanities including archaeology art history languages literature philosophy and related cultural disciplines which consider the ancient cultures of the Mediterranean world and adjacent Egypt and southwestern Asia Chronologically the ancient world would extend from the beginning of the Bronze Age of ancient Greece ca 1000 BCE to the fall of the Western Roman Empire ca 500 CE This book will close the traditional subject gap between the humanities Classical World Egyptology and the social sciences anthropological archaeology Near East in the study of the ancient world This book is uniquely the only bibliographic resource available for such holistic coverage The volume consists of 17 chapters and seven appendixes arranged according to the traditional types of library research materials bibliographies dictionaries atlases etc The appendixes are mostly subject specific including graduate programs in ancient studies reports from significant archaeological sites numismatics and paleography and writing systems These extensive author and subject indexes help facilitate ease of use Bowhill Stuart R Blaylock, 2013-04-15 Bowhill is an important late medieval house near Exeter This monograph demonstrates how examination of its historical development and the material of its contruction were used to deepen understanding about it and to inform a repair programme Enriching Architecture Christine Casey, Melanie Hayes, 2023-01-26 Refinement and enrichment of surfaces in stone wood and plaster is a fundamental aspect of early modern architecture which has been marginalised by architectural history Enriching Architecture aims to retrieve and rehabilitate surface achievement as a vital element of early modern buildings in Britain and Ireland Rejected by modernism demeaned by the conceptual turn and too often reduced to its representative or social functions we argue for the historical legitimacy of creative craft skill as a primary agent in architectural production However in contrast to the connoisseurial and developmental perspectives of the past this book is concerned with how surfaces were designed achieved and experienced The contributors draw upon the major rethinking of craft and materials within the wider cultural sphere in recent years to deconstruct traditional oppositional ways of thinking about architectural production This is not a craft for craft's sake argument but an effort to embed the tangible findings of conservation and curatorial research within an evidence led architectural history that illuminates the processes of early modern craftsmanship. The book explores broad themes of surface treatment such as wainscot rustication plasterwork and staircase embellishment together with chapters focused on virtuoso buildings and set pieces which illuminate these themes Archaeology Hotspot Great Britain Donald Henson, 2015-03-12 The Archaeology Hotspots series offers reader friendly and engaging narratives of the archaeology in particular countries Written by archaeological experts with a general reader in mind each book in the series focuses on what has been found and by whom what the controversies and scandals have been ongoing projects and how it all fits into a broader view of the history of the country In Archaeology Hotspot Great Britain expert Donald Henson first chronicles the deep archaeology of a long settled region including England Wales and Scotland then explores both the famously ancient finds cave art at Creswell Crags Stonehenge and more recent and iconic historic sites and monuments such as Westminster Abbey and Ironbridge Gorge He profiles the often larger than life personalities and the previously marginalized women who have contributed to British archaeology the controversies influencing how we see the past are also highlighted Henson considers London's position in the antiquities trade and the safeguarding of heritage sites As a whole the book tells a fascinating story of Great Britain's history culture national heritage and ongoing role as a hotspot of archaeology British Reports, Translations and Theses British Library, Document Supply Centre, 1989 Crossing Paths Or Sharing Tracks? Audrey J. Horning, Marilyn Palmer, 2009 This volume brings together over 30 leading scholars in post medieval archaeology and examines where this relatively new discipline has developed from and perhaps more importantly where it is going in the "Stone was the One Crop that Never Failed" Christopher Casswell, Patrick Daniel, Carol Allen, 2010 In decades to come 2006 and 2007 a 94km long gas pipeline was excavated across the Pennines from Pannal in North Yorkshire to Nether Kellet in Lancashire N W England Around twenty archaeological excavations were undertaken to mitigate the impact of the construction of the pipeline on the archaeology of the route and these form the subject of this volume The excavated remains were generally slight and were widely scattered along the route the range of periods they represent is equally broad and intermittent The earliest recorded evidence was a Mesolithic flint scatter from Ribblesdale Bronze Age activity was represented by ringworks burnt mounds and rock art with an apparent concentration on the Craven lowlands during this period The prehistoric remains seem to reveal a low and shifting population more concerned with monumentality and remembering than with settlement and land division Very few traces of activity attributable to the 1st millennium BC were encountered Romano British remains were surprisingly sparse considering the military infrastructure and transport network inserted into the region at this time The pattern of slight and transient landuse with low levels of material culture established in prehistory appears to have been an enduring characteristic of the area The excavations along the Pannal to Nether Kellet pipeline have undoubtedly helped to characterise the archaeological resource of the Pennine river valleys through which it passed and have refined the understanding of the distribution and chronology of various activities and site types across a range of time periods Some questions have been answered and many new ones framed These sites now exist as a comparator for future work both in the local area and nationally Sherborne Abbey and School Excavations 1972-76 and 1990
