Hebrew Gothic Karen Grumberg, 2019-09-01 Makes a persuasive argument that gothic ideas play a vital role in how Hebrew writers have confronted history culture and politics Robert Alter author of Hebrew and Modernity Sinister tales written since the early twentieth century by the foremost Hebrew authors including S Y Agnon Leah Goldberg and Amos Oz reveal a darkness at the foundation of Hebrew culture The ghosts of a murdered Talmud scholar and his kidnapped bride rise from their graves for a nocturnal dance of death a girl hidden by a count in a secret chamber of an Eastern European castle emerges to find that unbeknownst to her World War II ended years earlier a man recounts the act of incest that would shape a trajectory of personal and national history Reading these works together with central British and American gothic texts Karen Grumberg illustrates that modern Hebrew literature has regularly appropriated key gothic ideas to help conceptualize the Jewish relationship to the past and more broadly to time She explores why these authors were drawn to the gothic originally a European mode associated with antisemitism and how they use it to challenge assumptions about power and powerlessness vulnerability and violence and to shape modern Hebrew culture Grumberg provides an original perspective on Hebrew literary engagement with history and sheds new light on the tensions that continue to characterize contemporary Israeli cultural and political rhetoric

Writing Postcolonial France Fiona Barclay, 2011-09-16 This book examines the way in which France has failed to come to terms with the end of its empire and is now haunted by the legacy of its colonial relationship with North Africa It examines the form assumed by the ghosts of the past in fiction from a range of genres travel writing detective fiction life writing historical fiction women's writing produced within metropolitan France and assesses whether moments of haunting may in fact open up possibilities for a renewed relational structure of cultural memory By viewing metropolitan France through the prism of its relationship with its former colonies in North Africa the book maps the complexities of contemporary France demonstrating an emerging postcoloniality within France itself The Post Card Jacques Derrida, 2020-10-28 17 November 1979 You were reading a somewhat retro loveletter the last in history But you have not yet received it Yes its lack or excess of address prepares it to fall into all hands a post card an open letter in which the secret appears but indecipherably What does a post card want to say to you On what conditions is it possible Its destination traverses you you no longer know who you are At the very instant when from its address it interpellates you uniquely you instead of reaching you it divides you or sets you aside occasionally overlooks you And you love and you do not love it makes of you what you wish it takes you it leaves you it gives you On the other side of the card look a proposition is made to you S and p Socrates and Plato For once the former seems to write and with his other hand he is even scratching But what is Plato doing with his outstretched finger in his back While you occupy yourself with turning it around in every direction it is the picture that turns you around like a letter in advance it deciphers you it preoccupies space it procures your words and gestures all the bodies that you believe you invent in order to determine its outline You find yourself you yourself on its path The thick support of the card a book heavy and light is also the specter of this scene the analysis between Socrates and Plato on the program of several others Like the soothsayer a fortune telling book watches over and speculates on that which must happen on what it indeed might mean to happen to arrive to have to happen or arrive to let or to make happen or arrive to destine to address to send to legate to inherit etc if it all still signifies between here and there the near and the far da und fort the one or the other You situate the subject of the book between the posts and the analytic movement the pleasure principle and the history of telecommunications the post card and the purloined letter in a word the transference from Socrates to Freud and beyond This satire of epistolary literature had to be farci stuffed with addresses postal codes crypted missives anonymous letters all of it confided to so many modes genres and tones In it I also abuse dates signatures titles or references language itself J D With The Post Card as with Glas Derrida appears more as writer than as philosopher Or we could say that here in what is in part a mock epistolary novel the long section is called Envois roughly dispatches he stages his writing more overtly than in the scholarly works The Post Card also contains a series of self reflective essays largely focused on Freud in which Derrida is beautifully lucid and direct Alexander Gelley Library Journal

Sarah Keenan,2014-08-13 This book explores the relationship between space subjectivity and property in order to invert conventional socio legal understandings of property Sarah Keenan demonstrates that new political possibilities for property may be unveiled by thinking about property in terms of space and belonging rather than exclusion Drawing on feminist and critical race theory this book shifts focus away from the propertied subject and on to the broader spaces in and through which the propertied subject is located Using case studies such as analyses of compulsory leases under Australia s Northern Territory Intervention and lesbian asylum cases from a range of jurisdictions Keenan argues that these spaces consist of networks of relations that revolve around belonging not just belonging between subject and object as property is traditionally understood but also the less explored relation of belonging between the part and the whole This book therefore offers a conceptually useful way of analysing a wide range of socio legal issues It will be of relevance to those working in the area of property and legal geography but also to those with more general interests in socio legal studies social and political theory postcolonial studies critical race studies and gender and sexuality studies An Impossible Inheritance Katie

Kilroy-Marac,2019-05-14 Weaving sound historical research with rich ethnographic insight An Impossible Inheritance tells the story of the emergence, disavowal and afterlife of a distinctive project in transcultural psychiatry initiated at the Fann Psychiatric Clinic in Dakar Senegal during the 1960s and 1970s. Today's clinic remains haunted by its past and Katie Kilroy Marac brilliantly examines the complex forms of memory work undertaken by its affiliates over a sixty year period. Through stories such as that of the ghost said to roam the clinic's halls, the mysterious death of a young doctor sometimes attributed to witchcraft and the spirit possession ceremonies that may have taken place in Fann's courtyard, Kilroy Marac argues that memory work is always an act of the imagination and a moral practice with unexpected temporal, affective and political dimensions. By exploring how accounts about the Fann Psychiatric Clinic and its past speak to larger narratives of postcolonial and neoliberal transformation, An Impossible Inheritance examines the complex relationship between memory, history and power within the institution and beyond.

Difficult Mothers: Understanding and Overcoming Their Power Terri Apter, 2012-05-07 An essential work for readers seeking compassionate, wise guidance about the powerful relationship between mothers and their sons and daughters. Mother love is often seen as sacred, but for many children the relationship is a painful struggle. Using the newest research on human attachment and brain development, Terri Apter, an internationally acclaimed psychologist and writer, unlocks the mysteries of this complicated bond. She showcases the five different types of difficult mother: the angry mother, the controlling mother, the narcissistic mother, the envious mother, and the emotionally neglectful mother, and explains the patterns of behavior seen in each type. Apter also explores the dilemma at the heart of a difficult relationship: why a mother has such a powerful impact on us and why we continue to care about her responses long after we have outgrown our dependence. She then shows how we can conduct an emotional audit on ourselves to overcome the power of the complex feelings a difficult mother inflicts. In the end, this book celebrates the great resilience of sons and daughters of difficult mothers as well as acknowledging their special challenges.

Creativity, Madness and Civilisation Richard Pine, 2021-04-16 What is creativity? And what is madness? How far can we interpret an artist's work through our knowledge of his or her mental state, and how far can we infer a mental state from a work of art? When does a work of art cease to be a personal statement by the artist and become a matter of public concern? The contributions to this book attempt to answer some of these questions. They come from a wide range of disciplines and experiences: a practising psychiatrist, a practising artist suffering from reactive depression, and critics working in literature, film, music, and the visual arts. The essays include discussions of the myth of creativity, the music of Robert Schumann, the borders of sanity in the writing of Lawrence Durrell, the insane truth of Virginia Woolf, the meeting of doctor and patient in the poetry of Anne Sexton, mood disorders in the fiction of David Foster Wallace, love and madness in the poetry of Hafiz of Shiraz, and the paintings of Adolf Wölfli. Central to this discussion of creativity, madness, and civilisation is the difficulty of establishing an appropriate and effective vocabulary and mindset between critics and clinical psychiatrists, which would enable them to work together in understanding mental disturbance in creative artists.
