A Poetics of Postcolonial Biblical Criticism Aliou Cissé Niang, 2019-12-18 Telling in current biblical postcolonial discourse that draws insights from the works of Aimé Césaire, Frantz Fanon and postcolonial theorists is the missing contribution of Leopold Sédar Senghor the architect of Negritude. If mentioned at all, Senghor is often read through conclusions drawn by his critics or dismissed altogether as irrelevant to postcolonialism. Restored to its rightful place, Senghorian Negritude is a postcolonial lens for reading Scripture and other faith traditions with a view to reposition, conscientize, liberate and rehabilitate the conquered and enable them to reclaim their faith traditions and practices that once directed a mutual relationship between God, human and nature, a delicate symbiosis before the French colonial advent in West Africa. A keen eye for cross-cultural analysis and contextualization enriched this volume with an intriguing reading of Scripture, Ancient Near Eastern and Greco-Roman texts in conversation with other faith traditions, particularly Senegalese Diola Religion. As a Poetics of Postcolonial Biblical Criticism, Negritude is an optic through which people of faith may look around themselves, critically reread their sacred texts, reassess their vocation and practice mutuality with God and nature on the heels of chilling climate change. Enshrined in this innovative argument is a call for introspection and challenge for people of faith to assume their vocation, human participatory agency.

A Hermit's Cookbook Andrew Jotischky, 2011-06-02 How did medieval hermits survive on their self-denying diet? What did they eat and how did unethical monks get around the rules? The Egyptian hermit Onuphrios was said to have lived entirely on dates and perhaps the most famous of all hermits, John the Baptist, on locusts and wild honey. Was it really possible to sustain life on so little food? The history of monasticism is defined by the fierce and passionate abandonment of the ordinary comforts of life, the most striking being food and drink. A Hermit's Cookbook opens with stories and pen portraits of the Desert Fathers of early Christianity and their followers who were ascetic solitaries, hermits and pillar dwellers. It proceeds to explore how the ideals of the desert fathers were revived in both the Byzantine and Western traditions, looking at the cultivation of food in monasteries, eating and cooking, and why hunting animals was rejected by any self-respecting hermit. Full of rich anecdotes and including recipes for basic monks' stew and bread soup and many others, this is a fascinating story of hermits, monks' food and fasting in the Middle Ages.

Indigenous Innovation Elizabeth Sumida Huaman, Bharath Sriraman, 2015-10-30 Rooted in diverse cultures and in distinct regions of the world, Indigenous people have for generations created, maintained and negotiated clear and explicit relationships with their environments. Despite numerous historical disruptions and steady iterations of imperialism that continue through today, Indigenous communities embody communities of struggle, resistance and intense vitality, creativity. In this work, a fellowship of Indigenous research has emerged and our collective intent is to share critical narratives that link together Indigenous worldviews, culturally based notions of ecology and educational practices in places and times where human relationships with
