

Doing good is always the right thing to do!

- It is good to have a merciful and respectful attitude.
  - We can correctly judge sin, and evil that we see in people without slandering them.
- We need to be people of not good, but great manners!
  - A quarrelsome attitude makes a poor witness for Christ.

The Improbable War Christopher Coker, 2014-12-15 The Improbable War explains why conflict between the USA and China cannot be ruled out In 1914 war between the Great Powers was considered unlikely yet it happened We learn only from history and popular though the First World War analogy is the lessons we draw from its outbreak are usually mistaken Among these errors is the tendency to over estimate human rationality All major conflicts of the past 300 years have been about the norms and rules of the international system In China and the US the world confronts two exceptional powers whose values differ markedly with China bidding to challenge the current order The Thucydidean Trap when a conservative status quo power confronts a rising new one may also play its part in precipitating hostilities To avoid stumbling into an avoidable war both Beijing and Washington need a coherent strategy which neither of them has History also reveals that war evolves continually The next global conflict is likely to be played out in cyberspace and outer space and like all previous wars it will have devastating consequences Such a war between the United States and China may seem improbable but it is all too possible which is why we need to discuss it now

Good Things to Do Rüdiger Bittner, 2023 Rüdiger Bittner argues that the aim of thinking about what to do of practical reason is to find not what we ought to do but what it is good to do under the circumstances Neither under prudence nor under morality are there things we ought to do There is no warrant for the idea of our being required by natural law or by our rationality to do either what helps us attain our ends or what is right for moral reasons While common moral understanding is committed to there being things we ought to do and to our being guilty and deserving blame if we fail to do them we can lay aside these notions without loss indeed with benefit The volume also explains what it is for something to be good to do under the circumstances and argues for understanding practical reason in these terms What is good to do we find by experience what we go through teaches us what helps and what hinders and helps us figure out what is prudentially useful and what is morally right to do although ultimately this difference itself gives way and morality turns out to be a part of prudence

American Lumberman, 1894 Poetry in Speech Egbert J. Bakker, 2018-03-15 Applying linguistic theory to the study of Homeric style Egbert J Bakker offers a highly innovative approach to oral poetry particularly the poetry of Homer By situating formulas and other features of oral style within the wider contexts of spoken language and communication he moves the study of oral poetry beyond the landmark work of Milman Parry and Albert Lord One of the book's central features related to the research of the linguist Wallace Chafe is Bakker's conception of spoken discourse as a sequence of short speech units reflecting the flow of speech through the consciousness of the speaker Bakker shows that such short speech units are present in Homeric poetry with significant consequences for Homeric metrics and poetics Considering Homeric discourse as a speech process rather than as the finished product associated with written discourse Bakker's book offers a new perspective on Homer as well as on other archaic Greek texts Here Homeric discourse appears as speech in its own right and is freed Bakker suggests from the bias of modern writing style which too easily views Homeric discourse as archaic implicitly taking the style of classical period texts as the norm Bakker's perspective reaches beyond syntax and stylistics into the very heart of Homeric and ultimately oral poetics altering the status of key features such as meter and formula rethinking their relevance to the performance of Homeric poetry and leading to surprising insights into the relation between speech and text in the encounter of the Homeric tradition with writing

Business, 1910 Families at Play Sinem Siyahhan, Elisabeth Gee, 2018-02-02 How family video game play promotes intergenerational communication connection and learning Video games have a bad reputation in the mainstream media They are blamed for encouraging social isolation promoting violence and creating tensions between parents and children In this book Sinem Siyahhan and Elisabeth Gee offer another view They show that video games can be a tool for connection not isolation creating opportunities for families to communicate and learn together Like smartphones Skype and social media games help families stay connected Siyahhan and Gee offer examples One family treats video game playing as a regular and valued activity and bonds over Halo A father tries to pass on his enthusiasm for Star Wars by playing Lego Star Wars with his young son Families express their feelings and share their experiences and understanding of the world through playing video games like The Sims Civilization and Minecraft Some video games are designed specifically to support family conversations around such real world issues and sensitive topics as bullying and peer pressure Siyahhan and Gee draw on a decade of research to look at how learning and teaching take place when families play video games together With video games they argue the parents are not necessarily the teachers and experts all family members can be both teachers and learners They suggest video games can help families form develop and sustain their learning culture as well as develop skills that are valued in the twenty first century workplace Educators and game designers should take note
