Reports from Committees Great Britain. Parliament. A Death in Delhi Gordon C. Roadarmel, 2023-11-15 A Death in Delhi Modern Hindi Short Stories offers a compelling glimpse into the evolution of contemporary Hindi literature through fifteen carefully selected short stories Reflecting the anxieties alienation and transformations of urban middle class life these narratives explore themes of estrangement dislocation and the tension between tradition and modernity The stories delve into intimate emotions and societal challenges portraying a world where individuality collides with the forces of a rapidly changing society Rooted in the unique context of Indian life the collection also highlights a universal resonance connecting readers to shared human experiences Spanning the work of writers from the 1950s and 1960s this anthology captures a pivotal moment in Hindi literature when storytelling shifted toward introspection and realism The included stories illustrate how modern Hindi authors moved beyond traditional forms to embrace experimental techniques and taboo themes reflecting a growing sense of skepticism and disillusionment with societal norms Through vivid translation and a nuanced introduction this volume introduces readers to the rich tapestry of Hindi short fiction and its relevance in both the Indian and global literary landscapes This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1972 Keeping House Virginia Bartlett, 1994-11-15 This book is a fascinating re-creation of the lives of women in the time of great social change that followed the end of the French and Indian War in western Pennsylvania Many decades passed before a desolate and violent frontier was transformed into a stable region of farms and towns Keeping House: Women's Lives in Western Pennsylvania, 1790-1850 tells how the daughters, wives and mothers who crossed the Allegheny Mountains responded and adapted to unaccustomed physical and psychological hardships as they established lives for themselves and their families in their new homes Intrigued by late eighteenth and early nineteenth century manuscript cookbooks in the collection of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania Virginia Bartlett wanted to find out more about women living in the region during that period Quoting from journals, letters, cookbooks, travelers' accounts, approving and critical memoirs, documents and newspapers she offers us voices of women and men commenting seriously and humorously on what was going on around them The text is well illustrated with contemporaneous art, engravings, paintings, drawings and cartoons Of special interest are color and black and white photographs of furnishings, housewares, clothing and portraits from the collections of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania This is not a sentimental account Bartlett makes clear how little say women had about their lives and how little protection they could expect from the law especially on matters relating to property Their world was one of marked contrasts: life in a log cabin with bare necessities and elegant dinners in the homes of Pittsburgh's military and entrepreneurial elite; rural women in homespun and affluent Pittsburgh ladies in imported fashions When the book begins families are living in fear of Indian attacks as it ends the word shawling has come into use as the polite term for pregnancy referring to women's attempt to hide their condition with cleverly draped shawls The menacing frontier has given way to American style gentility An introduction by Jack D. Warren, University of Virginia, sets the scene with a discussion of the early peopling of the region and places the book within the context of women's studies
