Christian practice It will show how the theological significance of embodied practice may be retrieved and reconceived in the present day Food and diet is a neglected area of Christian theology and Christianity is conspicuous among the modern world's religions in having few dietary rules or customs Yet historically food and the practices surrounding it have significantly shaped Christian lives and identities This collection prepared collaboratively includes contributions on the relationship between Christian beliefs and food practices in specific historical contexts It considers the relationship between eating and believing from non Christian perspectives that have in turn shaped Christian attitudes and practices It also examines ethical arguments about vegetarianism and their significance for emerging Christian theologies of food Spicing up Britain
