Preparing the Mothers of Tomorrow Ela Greenberg, 2012-11-30 From the late nineteenth century onward men and women throughout the Middle East discussed debated and negotiated the roles of young girls and women in producing modern nations In Palestine girls education was pivotal to discussions about motherhood Their education was seen as having the potential to transform the family so that it could meet both modern and nationalist expectations Ela Greenberg offers the first study to examine the education of Muslim girls in Palestine from the end of the Ottoman administration through the British colonial rule Relying upon extensive archival sources official reports the Palestinian Arabic press and interviews she describes the changes that took place in girls education during this time Greenberg describes how local Muslims often portrayed as indifferent to girls education actually responded to the inadequacies of existing government education by sending their daughters to missionary schools despite religious tensions or by creating their own private nationalist institutions Greenberg shows that members of all socioeconomic classes understood the triad of girls education modernity and the nationalist struggle as educated girls would become the mothers of tomorrow who would raise nationalist and modern children While this was the aim of the various schools in Palestine not all educated Muslim girls followed this path as some used their education even if it was elementary at best to become teachers nurses and activists in women s organizations girlhood The arguments challenge the mainstream assumptions and promotions about the guarantees of female success via small school supports tailored curricula protection school choice and class advantage Single gender schools are not homogenous they have different histories student populations finances and organization Recognizing this diversity Girls Single sex Schools and Postfeminist Fantasies draws on rich data collected in two US secondary schools over a two year period to identify and explore the ambiguities of success in single sex schools for girls Rich classroom observations and interviews with teachers and students reveal the resounding message delivered to girls that they can have it all by going to college By exploring students imaginings hopes and doubts around college the text illustrates how this catalyzes girls critiques of their futures and of the schooled storylines of female success While teachers might trumpet college career and limitless horizons girls seek to understand their social positions and try to make sense of family passions and future happiness This book will be of great interest to graduate and postgraduate students academics researchers libraries in secondary education girlhood studies sociology of education gender and sexuality in education single sex schooling and feminist theory A Case for Educating the Muslim Girl-child Ishaak Ibrahim Nuamah,2005 Private Education

Geoffrey Walford,2005-11-24 Private schools are central to the reproduction of social inequality For example whilst in the UK providing only about seven per cent of the school population about half of the undergraduates at Oxford and Cambridge still come from the private sector Private schools have long been associated with privilege and elitism While this traditional elitist aspect to the private sector is still central the private school sector is actually far more diverse that is usually acknowledged It now includes many small schools and faith based schools that may not offer the traditional advantages of the private sector but which provide a particular environment deemed desirable by parents In spite of their educational and social importance there has been very little academic research and writing on private schools The proposed book will be the culmination of Professor Walford s research into private schools over the past twenty years India's Struggle to Universalize Elementary Education Satya Pal Ruhela,1996 Education specially at the primary level contributes to a great extent to the physical mental emotional social and spiritual growth of the child Primary education promotes the sikls knowlege attitudes and habits This book question the reasons behind non universalization of primary education in India Rampant child labour and poverty are the two most commonly cited resons in Inidia which did not deter some of the other developing countres from making primary education compulsory Women's Education in Developing Countries Elizabeth M. King,M. Anne Hill,1997-07-01 Why do women in most developing countries lag behind men in literacy Why do women get less schooling than men This anthology examines the educational decisions that deprive women of an equal education It assembles the most up to date data organized by region Each paper links the data with other measures of economic and social development This approach helps explain the effects different levels of education have on womens fertility mortality rates life expectancy and income Also described are the effects of women s education on family welfare The authors look at family size and women s labor status and earnings They examine child and maternal health as well as investments in children s education Their investigation demonstrates that women with a better education enjoy greater economic growth and provide a more nurturing family life It suggests that when a country denies women an equal education the nation s welfare suffers Current strategies used to improve schooling for girls and women are examined in detail The authors suggest an ambitious agenda for educating women It seeks to close the gender gap by the next century Published for The World Bank by The Johns Hopkins University Press

Imagining Childhood, Improving Children Catriona Ellis,2023-08-24 From as early as the 1920s state policy towards children in South India was framed through the lens of a universal ideal of modern childhood This reflected the participation of policy makers and civil society activists in global discourses of child saving and the new opportunities of governance under the constitutional reforms of 1919 Children became viewed as both objects to be saved and investments as future citizens The book considers how adults used this concept of universal childhood to conceptualise themselves as both modern and avuncular gaining authority through an appropriation of familial terms as well as the claim to modern scientific expertise Through a detailed study of education health and juvenile justice the book reveals that the implementation of policy was still informed by other markers of difference and contrasts adult intentions with the autobiographical memories of school family and peer relationships

Gender, Religion and Education in a Chaotic Postmodern World Zehavit Gross,Lynn Davies,Al-Khansaa Diab,2012-12-04 The immense changes that the world is undergoing in terms of globalization and migration of peoples have had a profound effect on cultures and identities The question is whether this means shifts in religious identities for women and men in different contexts whether such shifts are seen as beneficial negative or insufficient or whether social change actually means new conservatism or even fundamentalisms Surrounding these questions is the role of education is in any change or new contradiction This unique book enhances an interdisciplinary discourse about the complex intersections between gender religion and education in the contemporary world Literature in the social sciences and humanities have expanded our understanding of women s involvement in almost every aspect of life yet the combined religious educational aspect is still an under studied and often under theorized field of research How people experience their religious identity in a new context or country is also a theme now needing more complex attention Questions of the body visibility and invisibility are receiving new treatments This book fills these gaps The book provides a strong comparative perspective with 15 countries or contexts represented The context of education and learning covers schools higher education non formal education religious institutions adult literacy curriculum and textbooks Overall the book reveals a great complexity and often contradiction in modern negotiations of religion and secularism by girls and boys women and men and a range of possibilities for change It provides a theoretical and practical resource for researchers religious and educational institutions policy makers and teachers
