and state action Scholars researchers policymakers and the reading public concerned with issues of race relations social philosophy contemporary moral problems and the psychology of race differences will find the book provocative No one making an effort to think clearly about race can ignore Why Race Matters Race and Racism in the United States Charles A. McCluskey, 2022-09-15 American public schooling was established to unify diverse people and prepare citizens for democracy Intuitively it would teach diverse people the same values preferably in the same buildings with the goal that they will learn to get along and uphold government by the people But intuition can be wrong significant evidence suggests that public schools have not brought diverse people together whether from legally mandated racial segregation espousing values many people could not accept or human beings simply tending to associate with others like themselves Indeed the basic reality that people have diverse values and desires has rendered public schooling not a unifying force but a battleground That public schooling is necessary for democracy is also not supported both because we do not have a commonly agreed upon definition of democracy and because public schooling violates the bedrock American value liberty that democracy is supposed to protect The Fractured Schoolhouse Reexamining Education for a Free Equal and Harmonious Society proposes that to fulfill the mission of public schooling we need what some might call its opposite school choice Education grounded in liberty would enable diverse people to pursue curricula and policies they think are right without having to impose them on others and by making separated groups equals and easing the creation of new identities it would foster bridge building
