Trade Infrastructure and Economic Development David Olusanya Ajakaiye,T. Ademola Oyejide,2012-03-12 There is growing consensus in the literature that trade and trade policy matter for a pro poor growth and development strategy Therefore policies that are consistent with this strategy feature increasingly in many African countries where poverty is endemic and rapid and where sustainable economic growth is viewed as the major vehicle for poverty reduction Key elements of these policies include measures that promote the expansion and diversification of production and trade in Africa This book is aimed at articulating appropriate structural and policy measures for eliminating the constraints that African countries face and thus ensuring that they can derive maximum benefits from all available market access opportunities There is evidence that most African countries face external market access barriers in their major export destinations which are generally less constraining than those confronting countries in other developing country regions Yet they have generally not been able to take full advantage of the special preferential market access opportunities available to them This suggests that improved external market access whether reciprocal or preferential would not by itself be sufficient for strengthening African export performance In this collection export supply response capacity takes external beyond the border factors as given and concentrates primarily on the internal behind the border factors that influence production and distribution costs and thus competitiveness The central working hypothesis of this book is that the inability of domestic producers and exporters in Africa to respond quickly effectively and efficiently to external market access opportunities is caused by various limitations of their internal supply capacity and that this in turn is largely responsible for the lacklustre export performance of many African countries This comprehensive study should be of interest to students and researchers of international trade
