Environment and Industry in Developing Countries Ralph Andrew Luken, Frank Van Rompaey,2007-01-01 This impressive study compares the adoption of environmentally sound technology in industrial sectors in eight developing countries In combining a variety of quantitative and qualitative methodologies on rich empirical data the authors open the technological change black box and are able to formulate clear conclusions on the drivers and barriers for technological change A major contribution to better understanding and governing environmentally sound technological change

Arthur P J Mol Wageningen University The Netherlands All theory is gray but the golden tree of life springs ever green says Goethe This book is very green that is empirical about a green topic the adoption of environmentally sound technologies in developing countries using triangulation for assessing the factors behind such choices A very nice study on an important topic

Ren Kemp UNU MERIT Maastricht The Netherlands Industries located in developing countries have made major improvements in environmental performance since the Rio Earth Summit of 1992 More specifically their record in reducing energy use and water pollutant intensities has been better than developed countries This significant new book investigates what motivates industries in developing countries to adopt environmentally sound technology EST a subject about which very little is actually known The authors present the findings of a United Nations study of the factors that determined EST adoption by 105 manufacturing plants in four different sectors within eight developing countries They explore both factors internal to the plants as well as external factors including governments markets and civil society

Environment and Industry in Developing Countries will be of great interest to development assistance agencies supporting programmes for industrial environmental management in developing countries and also to graduate school programmes in economic development technology management as well as in international business

The Role of Innovation and Entrepreneurship in Economic Growth Michael J Andrews, Aaron Chatterji, Josh Lerner, Scott Stern, 2022-03-17 This volume presents studies from experts in twelve industries providing insights into the future role of innovation and entrepreneurship in driving economic growth across sectors We live in an era in which innovation and entrepreneurship seem ubiquitous particularly in regions like Silicon Valley Boston and the Research Triangle Park But many metrics of economic growth such as productivity growth and business dynamism have been at best modest in recent years The resolution of this apparent paradox is dramatic heterogeneity across sectors with some industries seeing robust innovation and entrepreneurship and others seeing stagnation By construction the impact of innovation and entrepreneurship on overall economic performance is the cumulative impact of their effects on individual sectors Understanding the potential for growth in the aggregate economy depends therefore on understanding the sector by sector potential for growth This insight motivates the twelve studies of different sectors that are presented in this volume Each study identifies specific productivity improvements enabled by innovation and entrepreneurship for example as a result of new production technologies increased competition or new organizational forms These twelve studies along with three synthetic chapters provide new insights on the sectoral patterns and concentration of the contributions of innovation and entrepreneurship to economic growth
