Debt Games Vinod K. Aggarwal,1996-04-26 International debt rescheduling both in earlier epochs and our present one has been marked by a flurry of bargaining In this process significant variation has emerged over time and across cases in the extent to which debtors have undertaken economic adjustment banks or bondholders have written down debts and creditor governments and international organizations have intervened in negotiations Debt Games develops and applies a situational theory of bargaining to analyze the adjustment undertaken by debtors and the concessions provided by lenders in international debt rescheduling This approach has two components a focus on each actor s individual situation defined by its political and economic bargaining resources and a complementary focus on changes in their position The model proves successful in accounting for bargaining outcomes in eighty four percent of the sixty one cases which include all instances of Peruvian and Mexican debt rescheduling over the last one hundred and seventy years as well as Argentine and Brazilian rescheduling between 1982 and 1994

Brundenius, J. Weeks, 2001-03-29 After the collapse of the Soviet Union it appeared that the only option for developing countries was integration into the world economy Written by a group of international experts this book investigates the strategies deployed by Cuba and Vietnam to consider whether socialism in some form offers a viable development alternative World Directory of Minorities Bridget Anderson, James Chin, John Connell, Patrick Costello, Lindsey Crickmay, Chris Dammers, James Ferguson, David Hawk, David McDowall, Anna Matveeva, Julia Maxted, Neil Melvin, Peter O'Neill, Suzanne Pattle, Martyn Rady, Javaid Rehman, Alex Roslin, Nikhil Roy, David Sogge, Bogdan Szajkowski, Carl Wilson, Abebe Zegeye, 1997-01-01 This publication is the first version of the World Directory of Minorities and Indigenous Peoples published in 1997 The full Directory is now available and continually updated on our website The large majority of violent conflicts in the world today are conflicts within states with groups polarized across ethnic and religious divides and not across borders Ethnic religious and linguistic minorities are often among the poorest of the poor suffer discrimination and are frequently the victims of human rights abuses Time and time again in the past the United Nations system governments and even non governmental organizations NGOs working in the field of conflict prevention have failed to promote the human rights of minorities or to take early action to promote cooperation between communities Early action may have prevented the loss of millions of lives in many countries ranging from Rwanda to the former Yugoslavia and from Sri Lanka to Guatemala It is also significant that the Nobel Peace Prize was awarded to the Dalai Lama in 1989 and to Jose Ramos Horta and Bishop Carlos Belo in 1996 as a result of their peaceful campaigns to promote the rights of their people The situation of minorities is then a matter of major concern and it is essential that accurate objective and up to date information is made available This Directory contributes to that process It is difficult to assess accurately what proportion of the world s population identify themselves as belonging to minority communities Conservative estimates place this above 10 per cent and some suggest that more than 20 per cent of the world s population belongs to several thousand different minority groups and subgroups National statistics are often skewed for political reasons and there is no universally accepted definition of minorities The word has different interpretations in different societies throughout the world while the United Nations General Assembly has not sought to reach a definition beyond that implied in the title of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Persons belonging to National or Ethnic Religious and Linguistic Minorities adopted in December 1992 Minority Rights Group focuses its work on non dominant ethnic religious and linguistic communities whether or not they are numerical minorities The concept thus relates to any self identified community that is marginalized without power unable to take decisions over its destiny and often experiencing high levels of illiteracy under education and overt or covert discrimination The basic rights of such communities need protection and promotion There is however a danger of generalizing about minorities and forgetting the complexity of their social composition including the rural poor urban migrants older people women and children These groups may be considered as doubly vulnerable What makes their situation particularly problematic is that there is often a deliberate political policy on the part of majorities and states not to give due regard to the legitimate interests of minorities while members of minorities see their identity as central to their social and economic situation They are often excluded from political power and decision making in the development process without equal opportunities to secure a better quality of life One further danger may lie in regarding ethnicities as fixed rather than as the potentially fluid phenomena that they often are Situational ethnicity does occur and individuals and groups do modify their self identifications depending on circumstances Please note that the terminology in the fields of minority rights and indigenous peoples rights has changed over time MRG strives to reflect these changes as well as respect the right to self identification on the part of minorities and indigenous peoples At the same time after over 50 years work we know that our archive is of considerable interest to activists and researchers Therefore we make available as much of our back catalogue as possible while being aware that the language used may not reflect current thinking on these issues

Forgotten Continent: The Battle for Latin America's Soul Michael Reid, 2010-08-18 The bestselling primer on the social political and economic challenges facing Central and South America by The Economist editor and author of Brazil Latin America has often been condemned to failure Neither poor enough to evoke Africa's moral crusade nor as explosively booming as India and China it has largely been overlooked by the West Yet this vast continent home to half a billion people the world's largest reserves of arable land and 8.5 percent of global oil is busily transforming its political and economic landscape This book argues that rather than failing the test Latin America's efforts to build fairer and more prosperous societies make it one of the world's most vigorous laboratories for capitalist democracy In many countries including Brazil Chile and Mexico democratic leaders are laying the foundations for faster economic growth and more inclusive politics as well as tackling deep rooted problems of poverty inequality and social injustice They face a new challenge from Hugo Chavez's oil fueled populism and much is at stake Failure will increase the flow of drugs and illegal immigrants to the United States and Europe jeopardize stability in a region rich in oil and other strategic commodities and threaten some of the world's most majestic natural environments Drawing on Michael Reid's many years of reporting from inside Latin America's cities presidential palaces and shantytowns the book provides a vivid immediate and informed account of a dynamic continent and its struggle to compete in a globalized world No one who seriously aspires to discuss Latin American politics economics and culture should go without reading Forgotten Continent National Interest

Critical Perspectives on Globalization and Neoliberalism in the Developing Countries Richard Harris, Melinda Seid, 2021-10-01 This book gives a critique of the contemporary global capitalist system and the adverse consequences suffered by the developing countries as a result of their integration into this system The current neoliberal paradigm of capitalist development as the only or the best alternative for the economic social and political development of the developing countries is rejected The authors search for more human and ecologically sustainable alternatives focusing on Latin America Asia and women Contributors are David Barkijn Robert N Gwynne Richard L Harris Crist bal Kay Jorge Nef Mustapha Kamal Pasha Cathy A Rakowski Wilder Robles Melinda J Seid and John Weeks
