

The background of the book cover is a detailed mosaic of the painting 'Woman in Blue' by Gustav Klimt. The central figure is a woman with dark hair, wearing a blue dress with a patterned bodice and a long, flowing skirt. The entire scene is composed of small, irregular tiles in various shades of brown, gold, and blue, creating a textured, mosaic-like effect. The woman is positioned in the center, looking slightly to the right. The overall color palette is dominated by earthy tones, with the blue of the dress providing a focal point.

Dynamics and Economic Growth Richard Arena,Pier Luigi Porta,2012-05-03 Ever since Adam Smith economists have been preoccupied with the puzzle of economic growth The standard mainstream models of economic growth were and often still are based either on assumptions of diminishing returns on capital with technological innovation or on endogenous dynamics combined with a corresponding technological and institutional setting An alternative model of economic growth emerged from the Cambridge School of Keynesian economists in the 1950s and 1960s This model developed mainly by Luigi Pasinetti emphasizes the importance of demand human learning and the growth dynamics of industrial systems Finally in the past decade new mainstream models have emerged incorporating technology or demand based structural change and extending the notion of balanced growth This collection of essays reassesses Pasinetti s theory of structural dynamics in the context of these recent developments with contributions from economists writing in both the mainstream and the Cambridge Keynesian traditions and including Luigi Pasinetti William Baumol Geoffrey Harcourt and Nobel laureate Robert Solow The New

Normal Amitai Etzioni,2017-09-08 Amitai Etzioni argues that societies must find a way to balance individual rights and the common good This point of balance may change as new technologies develop the natural and international environments change and new social forces arise Some believe the United States may be unduly short changing individual rights that need to be better protected Specifically should the press be granted more protection Or should its ability to publish state secrets be limited Should surveillance of Americans and others be curtailed Should American terrorists be treated differently from others How one answers these questions Etzioni shows invites a larger fundamental question Where is the proper point of balance between rights and security Etzioni implements the social philosophy liberal communitarianism Its key assumptions are that neither individual rights nor the common good should be privileged that both are core values and that a balance is necessary between them Etzioni argues that we need to find a new balance between our desire for more goods services and affluence particularly because economic growth may continue to be slow and jobs anemic The key question is what makes a

Comparisons

in Economic Thought Stavros A. Drakopoulos, 2016-05-26 The idea of comparing rewards with others has a long and persistent presence in the social sciences and can be found in many psychological social and managerial theories In economics this idea can be traced back through the works of a substantial number of eminent thinkers from Genovesi and Hume to Smith Ricardo Marx and Mill through to Veblen Pigou and Keynes In the last two decades the notion of social comparisons has started to appear more frequently in economic literature especially in the subfield of happiness research There are also signs that the notion has resurfaced in some strands of literature such as positional concerns social identity models and social capital theory Comparisons in Economic Thought offers a uniquely comprehensive account of how social comparisons have featured in the history of economic thought This book provides an assessment as to why social comparisons have been dismissed by mainstream economists and considers their current and future usefulness This volume is suitable for those who are interested and study history of economic thought economic methodology and History of Consumer Theory as well as Rational Choice Theory
