

Commerce, like beauty, knows no second spring.

Crime walks thy streets, Fraud earns her unblest bread,

O'er Want and Wo thy gorgeous robe is spread,

And angel charities in vain oppose:

With grandeur's growth the mass of misery grows.

For see,—to other climes the Genius soars,

He turns from Europe's desolated shores;

And lo, even now, midst mountains wrapt in storm,

On Andes' heights he shrouds his awful form;

The Poems of Anna Letitia Barbauld Mrs. Barbauld (Anna Letitia), 1743-1825 This volume brings together for the first time all the known poems of English writer Anna Letitia Barbauld 1743-1825 a once esteemed but long neglected figure whose career spanned the Age of Sensibility and the Romantic Era William McCarthy and Elizabeth Kraft have collected 170 of her poems including twenty three previously unpublished and eleven conjectural attributions This is the first scholarly edition of any writings of Barbauld a brilliant woman whose interests ranged from literary criticism to history and affairs of state to children's stories At the end of the eighteenth century Barbauld may well have been the most eminent living poet male or female in Britain Barbauld belongs almost equally to two generations Her verse displays an eighteenth century adherence to balance common sense and poetic diction and meter but it also celebrates the individual the passionate and the fanciful in a clearly Romantic manner In the current reconfiguring of Romanticism Barbauld provides an important contrast to the major male poets who have until recently defined the era poets who clearly acknowledged her influence on their own work yet who played a role in Barbauld's lapse into obscurity in the century after her death Coleridge before a serious falling out with Barbauld admired her greatly and Wordsworth confessed that he wished the final eight lines of her poem Life had been of his own composing Walter Savage Landor ranked her Summer Evening's Meditation among the finest poems in the English language Barbauld's poems have retained their capacity to delight readers they are witty learned imaginative and unpredictable in both choice and treatment of subject Read as a whole this collection reveals a striking variety of style and voice and provides the basis for a major and long overdue reevaluation of Barbauld's poetry McCarthy and Kraft present unmodernized texts of the poems that reflect as nearly as possible the author's final intention and give variant readings in textual notes A lengthy introduction includes a discussion of the poems a history of their composition and publication and an outline of Barbauld's life and writing career

Scotland and the Fictions of Geography Penny Fielding, 2008-12-11 Focusing on the relationship between England and Scotland and the interaction between history and geography Penny Fielding explores how Scottish literature in the Romantic period was shaped by the understanding of place and space This book examines geography as a form of regional national and global definition addressing national surveys local stories place names and travel writing and argues that the case of Scotland complicates the identification of Romanticism with the local Fielding considers Scotland as North Britain in a period when the North of Europe was becoming a strong cultural and political identity and explores ways in which Scotland was both formative and disruptive of British national consciousness Containing studies of Robert Burns Walter Scott and James Hogg as well as the lesser known figures of Anne Grant and Margaret Chalmers this study discusses an exceptionally broad range of historical geographical scientific linguistic antiquarian and political writing from throughout North Britain
