Badriatunnor

- Evidence-based surgery (EBS) involves the integration of the best clinical and scientific evidence to treat patients.
- Best evidence is derived from the research literature and can be categorised into a hierarchy of levels
- Application of the knowledge derived from “best evidence” results in enhanced care for patients and also improved standards for surgeons and health care institutions
- Surgery has traditionally been considered a craft wherein individuals adopted techniques didactically from their teachers and performed each operation in a particular way because “that is how it was taught” to them.
