Evolution Of Womens Asylums Since 1500 From Refuges For Ex Prostitutes To Shelters For Battered Women:

The Evolution of Women's Asylums Since 1500 Sherrill Cohen,1992 The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in Catholic Europe witnessed the growth of new institutions designed to house repentant prostitutes and girls and women at risk of becoming prostitutes This little known surge in institution building arose out of the Catholic reform movement and the Counter Reformation Cohen presents a portrait of life in three such institutions for women in the Italian cities of Florence and Pistoia In Western societies from the sixteenth century onward far more types of gender specific institutions have been created for women than for men The institutions for women served many social functions usually including the control of women s sexuality Representing a new residential option for women beyond the traditional ones of marriage or convent these institutions were asylums in a dual sense operating as both sites of internment and shelters from harm Cohen demonstrates how the multi functional women s institutions of the early modern era served as the prototypes for a variety of asylums for women that emerged in later centuries including hostels homes for unwed mothers and battered women s shelters In a major revision of the historiography of social institutions Cohen argues that the women s institutions of early modern Europe played a pioneering role in developing techniques and institutional forms in the fields of corrections and social welfare

"Faith, Gender and the Senses in Italian Renaissance and Baroque Art " ErinE. Benay,2017-07-05 Taking the Noli me tangere and Doubting Thomas episodes as a focal point this study examines how visual representations of two of the most compelling and related Christian stories engaged with changing devotional and cultural ideals in Renaissance and Baroque Italy This book reconsiders depictions of the ambiguous encounter of Mary Magdalene and Christ in the garden John 20 11 19 known as the Noli me tangere and that of Christ s post Resurrection appearance to Thomas John 20 24 29 the Doubting Thomas as manifestations of complex theological and art theoretical milieus By focusing on key artistic monuments of the Italian Renaissance and Baroque periods the authors demonstrate a relationship between the rise of skeptical philosophy and empirical science and the efficacy of the senses in the construction of belief Further the authors elucidate the differing representational strategies employed by artists to depict touch and the ways in which these strategies were shaped by gender social class and educational level Indeed over time St Thomas became an increasingly public and therefore masculine symbol of devotional verification juridical inquiry and empirical investigation while St Mary Magdalene provided a more private model for pious women celebrating mostly behind closed doors the privileged and active participation of women in the faith The authors rely on primary source material paintings sculptures religious tracts hagiography popular sermons and new documentary evidence By reuniting their visual examples with important often little known textual sources the authors reveal a complex relationship between visual imagery the senses contemporary attitudes toward gender and the shaping of belief Further they add greater nuance to our understanding of the relationship between popular piety and the visual culture of the period      Gender, Honor, and Charity in Late Renaissance Florence Philip Gavitt, 2011-08-22 This book examines the important social role of charitable institutions for women and children in late Renaissance Florence Wars social unrest disease and growing economic inequality on the Italian peninsula displaced hundreds of thousands of families during this period In order to handle the social crises generated by war competition for social position and the abandonment of children a series of private and public initiatives expanded existing charitable institutions and founded new ones Philip Gavitt's research reveals the important role played by lineage ideology among Florence's elites in the use and manipulation of these charitable institutions in the often futile pursuit of economic and social stability Considering families of all social levels he argues that the pursuit of family wealth and prestige often worked at cross purposes with the survival of the very families it was supposed to preserve      Gender and Politics in Early Modern Europe C. Walker, 2002-11-05 This timely study analyses the seventeenth century revival of monasticism by English women who founded convents in France and the Low Countries Examining the nuns membership of both the English Catholic community and the continental Catholic Church it argues that despite strict monastic enclosure and exile they nevertheless engaged actively in the spiritual and political controversies of their day The book will add much to our understanding of women's power in early modern Europe and offer an insight into a previously ignored section of English society      Hard Knocks Janice Haaken, 2010-06-10 This book draws on interviews carried out over a period of eight years as well as novels films and domestic violence literature to explain the role of storytelling in the history of the battered women's movement The author shows how cultural contexts shape how stories about domestic abuse get told and offers critical tools for bringing psychology into discussions of group dynamics in the domestic violence field The book enlists psychoanalytic feminist theory to analyse storytelling practices and to re-visit four areas of tension in the movement where signs of battle fatigue have been most acute These areas include the conflicts that emerge between the battered women's movement and the state the complex relationship between domestic violence and other social problems and the question of whether woman battering is a special case that differs from other forms of social violence The volume also looks at the tensions between groups of women within the movement and how to address differences based on race class or other dimensions of power Finally the book explores the contentious issue of how to acknowledge forms of female aggression while still preserving a gender analysis of intimate partner violence In attending to narrative dynamics in the history of domestic violence work Hard Knocks presents a radical re reading of the contribution of psychology to feminist interventions and activism The book is ideal reading for scholars activists advocates and policy planners involved in domestic violence and is suitable for students of psychology social work sociology and criminology

Nuns and Nunneries in Renaissance Florence Sharon T. Strocchia, 2021-04-27 An analysis of Renaissance Florentine convents and their influence on the city's social economic and political history The 15th century was a time of dramatic and decisive change for nuns and nunneries in Florence That century saw the city's convents evolve from small semiautonomous communities to large civic institutions By 1552 roughly one in eight Florentine women lived in a religious community Historian Sharon T Strocchia analyzes this stunning growth of female monasticism revealing the important roles these women and institutions played in the social economic and political history of Renaissance Florence It became common practice during this time for unmarried women in elite society to enter convents This unprecedented concentration of highly educated and well connected women transformed convents into sites of great patronage and social and political influence As their economic influence also grew convents found new ways of supporting themselves they established schools produced manuscripts and manufactured textiles Using previously untapped archival materials Strocchia shows how convents shaped one of the principal cities of Renaissance Europe She demonstrates the importance of nuns and nunneries to the booming Florentine textile industry and shows the contributions that ordinary nuns made to Florentine life in their roles as scribes stewards artisans teachers and community leaders In doing so Strocchia argues that the ideals and institutions that defined Florence were influenced in great part by the city's powerful female monastics Winner Helen and Howard R Marraro Prize American Catholic Historical Association Strocchia examines the complex interrelationships between Florentine nuns and the laity the secular government and the religious hierarchy The author skillfully analyzes extensive archival and printed sources Choice

Health Care and Poor Relief in Counter-Reformation Europe Jon Arrizabalaga, Andrew Cunningham, Ole Peter Grell, 2005-08-15 The role of religion was of paramount importance in the change of attitudes and approaches to health care and charity which took place in the centuries following the Council of Trent Health Care and Poor Relief in Counter Reformation Europe examines the effects of the Counter Reformation on health care and poor relief in Southern Catholic Europe in the period between 1540 and 1700 As well as a comprehensive introduction discussing issues of the nature of the Catholic or Counter Reformation and the welfare provisions of the period Health Care and Poor Relief sets the period in its social economic religious and ideological context The book draws on the practices in different localities in Southern Europe ranging from the Republic of Venice and the Kingdom of Naples to Germany and Austria These examples establish how and why a revitalised and strengthened post Tridentine Catholic church managed to reshape and reinvigorate welfare provisions in Southern Europe Permeable Walls Graham Mooney, Jonathan Reinartz, 2009 This book is the first book devoted to the history of hospital and asylum visiting and deflects attention from medical history's more traditionally studied constituencies patients and doctors Covering the eighteenth to the late twentieth centuries and taking case studies from around the globe the authors demonstrate that hospitals and asylums could be remarkably permeable institutions However policies towards visitors have varied from outright exclusion as in the case of some isolation hospitals in Victorian Britain to near open access in the first Chinese missionary hospitals Historical studies of visitors and visiting as a result tell us much about the changing relationship between healthcare institutions and the communities they serve These histories are particularly relevant at a time when service providers seek ways to involve patients representatives in healthcare decision making to control hospital super bugs and to make the hospital environment accessible yet safe and secure With the re emergence of restricted visiting the subject remains one of the most emotive topics in the history of institutional medicine Bound to Emancipate

Angelina Chin, 2012-03-29 Emancipation a defining feature of twentieth century China society is explored in detail in this compelling study Angelina Chin expands the definition of women's emancipation by examining what this rhetoric meant to lower class women especially those who were engaged in stigmatized sexualized labor who were treated by urban elites as uncivilized rural threatening and immoral Beginning in the early twentieth century as a result of growing employment opportunities in the urban areas and the decline of rural industries large numbers of young single lower class women from rural south China moved to Guangzhou and Hong Kong forming a crucial component of the service labor force as shops and restaurants for the new middle class started to develop Some of these women worked as prostitutes teahouse waitresses singers and bonded household laborers At the time the concept of women's emancipation was high on the nationalist and modernizing agenda of progressive intellectuals missionaries and political activists The metaphor of freeing an enslaved or bound woman's body was ubiquitous in local discussions and social campaigns in both cities as a way of empowering women to free their bodies and to seek marriage and work opportunities Nevertheless the highly visible presence of sexualized lower class women in the urban space raised disturbing questions in the two modernizing cities about morality and the criteria for urban citizenship Examining various efforts by the Guangzhou and Hong Kong political participants to regulate women's occupations and public behaviors Bound to Emancipate shows how the increased visibility of lower class women and their casual interactions with men in urban South China triggered new concerns about identity consumption governance and mobility in the 1920s and 1930s Shedding new light on the significance of South China in modern Chinese history Chin also contributes to our understanding of gender and women's history in China

Negotiating Transcultural Relations in the Early Modern Mediterranean Stephen Ortega, 2016-04-22 Negotiating Transcultural Relations in the Early Modern Mediterranean is a study of transcultural relations between Ottoman Muslims, Christian subjects of the Venetian Republic and other social groups in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Focusing principally on Ottoman Muslims who came to Venice and its outlying territories and using sources in Italian, Turkish and Spanish, this study examines the different types of power relations and the social geographies that framed the encounters of Muslim travelers. While Stephen Ortega does not dismiss the idea that Venetians and Ottoman Muslims represented two distinct communities, he does argue that Christian and Muslim exchange in the pre-modern period involved integrated cultural, economic, political and social practices. Ortega's investigation brings to light how merchants, trade brokers, diplomats, informants, converts, wayward souls and government officials from different communities engaged in similar practices and used comparable negotiation tactics in matters ranging from trade disputes to the rights of male family members to guarantees of protection. In relying on sources from archives in Venice, Istanbul and Simancas, the book demonstrates the importance of viewing Mediterranean history from a variety of perspectives and it emphasizes the importance of understanding cross-cultural history as a negotiation between different social, cultural and institutional actors.

Feminists Negotiate the State Cynthia R. Daniels, Rachelle Brooks, 1997 Examines women's ability to demand and receive concessions from the various branches of the U.S. government in regard to its treatment of the issue of domestic violence. Topics explored include the history of approaches taken by women from the colonial era to the present day, the power of the terminology used to define the issue, interactions between police, feminists and those affected by domestic violence, the emergence of Battered Women's Syndrome as a defense in court cases, the history of the Violence Against Women Act and an assessment of the various strategies used by feminists to engage the state in ending domestic violence.

Authority, Gender, and Midwifery in Early Modern Italy Jennifer F. Kosmin, 2020-08-31 Authority, Gender and Midwifery in Early Modern Italy: Contested Deliveries explores attempts by church, state and medical authorities to regulate and professionalize the practice of midwifery in Italy from the late sixteenth to the late eighteenth century. Medical writers in this period devoted countless pages to investigating the secrets of women's sexuality and the processes of generation. By the eighteenth century, male practitioners in Britain and France were even successfully advancing careers as male midwives. Yet female midwives continued to manage the vast majority of all early modern births. An examination of developments in Italy, where male practitioners never made successful inroads into childbirth, brings into focus the complex social, religious and political contexts that shaped the management of reproduction in early modern Europe. Authority, Gender and Midwifery in Early Modern Italy argues that new institutional spaces to care for pregnant women and educate midwives in Italy during the eighteenth century were not strictly medical developments but rather socio-political responses both to long-standing concerns about honor shame and illegitimacy and contemporary unease about population growth and productivity In so doing this book complicates our understanding of such sites situating them within a longer genealogy of institutional spaces in Italy aimed at regulating sexual morality and protecting female honor It will be of interest to scholars of the history of medicine religious history social history and Early Modern Italy

Material Setting and Reform Experience in English

Institutions for Fallen Women, 1838-1910 Susan Woodall, 2023-09-25 Tracing the history of four English case studies this book explores how from outward appearance to interior furnishings the material worlds of reform institutions for fallen women reflected their moral purpose and shaped the lived experience of their inmates Various known as asylums refuges magdalens penitentiaries Houses or Homes of Mercy the goal of such institutions was the moral rehabilitation of unmarried but sexually experienced fallen women Largely from the working classes such women some of whom had been sex workers were represented in contradictory terms Morally tainted and a potential threat to respectable family life they were also worthy of pity and in need of saving from further sin Fuelled by rising prostitution rates from the early decades of the nineteenth century the number of moral reform institutions for fallen women expanded across Britain and Ireland Through a programme of laundry sewing work and regular religious instruction the period of institutionalisation and moral re education of around two years was designed to bring about a change in behaviour readying inmates for economic self sufficiency and re entry into society in respectable domestic service To achieve their goal institutional authorities deployed an array of ritual material religious and disciplinary tools with mixed results

Death, Disease and Mystical Experience in Early Modern Art

Michael Hill, Jennifer Milam, 2025-10-01 Fear of death and disease preoccupied the European consciousness throughout the early modern era becoming most acute at times of plague and epidemics In these times of heightened anxieties images of saints and protectors served to reassure the faithful of their religious protection against infection Modes of visual engagement and devotional subject matter were coupled in new ways to reinforce the emotive impact of art works and to reaffirm the perceived reality of the afterlife In this context a visual language of mystical devotion which overcame the limits of the body and even eroticised its suffering could serve the needs of the desolate and the pained In this series of essays focused on spiritual sensibilities in Renaissance art and its legacies authors present original ideas about the themes of death disease and mystical experience based primarily on the study of objects and their documented historical contexts Methodologically wide ranging in approach the resulting volume provides novel insights into the interplay between suffering and art making in the Western world
